Colonel Believes "Old Guard" Is Tied to Post.

Talks at His Home With Two Faction Leaders.

"Insurgents" May Insert Labor Plank in Platform.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)
OSTER BAY, Sept. 24.—Satisfied that his race against the "old guard" is won, Theodore Roosevelt rested on his oars today. Except for a brief talk in the morning with William H. Wilcox, chairman of the Public Service Commission of the Fifth District, and a chat across the dinner table with State Senator J. Mayhew Walworth of Westchester county, he paid little attention to politics.

Senator Walworth came to talk about the platform and particularly the labor plank. The "insurgents" believe that special effort should be made to enlist the interest of labor in the coming campaign, and with this in view, will lay stress upon a labor plank.

Mr. Wilcox, after he had told Col. Roosevelt that the Republicans in his home county of Chautauque were "hot" for him, presented a "big stick" to the colonel.

It is a long and heavy club, cut from a chestnut tree on Mr. Wilcox's country place.

Such reports as came to Oster Bay today from Saratoga were encouraging to the colonel. No visitors are expected tomorrow, and the colonel intends to put in the day quietly at home. He will start for Saratoga Monday morning.

MUST CARRY FIGHT TO CONVENTION FLOOR.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)
SARATOGA (N. Y.), Sept. 24.—If the insurgents under the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt wish their fight against the old guard for control of the Republican State Convention, which opens Tuesday, it will be after a battle on the convention floor.

It is understood an attempt will be made to re-polit the State Committee on the Roosevelt-Sherman chairmanship controversy at its meeting on Monday night.

This is the situation as outlined by President Lloyd C. Griscom of the New York County Committee, who tonight indicated that the insurgents doubt their ability to control the State Committee, and that they prefer to take no chances on having the committee reject Mr. Roosevelt a second time, thinking it safer to leave the solution of the problem to the convention itself, of which they claim control by a large majority.

The minimum Roosevelt vote is placed by Mr. Griscom at 570, while the minimum vote for the old guard, as being up the Roosevelt forces, places the figure at 332.

Chairman Woodruff tonight declared there was little change in the situation, and that the contest would be close.

Mr. Griscom retold tonight the circumstances leading up to the presentation of Col. Roosevelt's name to the State Committee meeting on August 1. He had been shown an editorial in Mr. Barner's Albany paper, in which the argument advanced by Mr. Roosevelt that the members of the State committee who voted for Mr. Sherman were deceived, is simply a plan.

The New York chairman reiterated his former statement that deception had been practiced in regard to Mr. Roosevelt's position on the temporary chairmanship by the old guard leaders, but rather than this he made no comment.

AVOID "JACKPOT" ROOM.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.)
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24.—Room 86 in the Southern Hotel was studiously avoided yesterday by the Illinois Democratic leaders, who attended the State convention in East St. Louis. None of a party leaders cared to have that room assigned to him, for it was in a bathroom connected with the hotel that the famous Illinois "jackpot" was alleged to have been distributed.

Room 86 referred to so often in the local courts at Chicago and Springfield, did not look like a good place in which to sleep, and the "vailing" of the jackpot all around the town territory. On one side former Mayor John P. Hopkins of Chicago had a room, and on the other side, leaders were assigned to rooms near the "jackpot" room.

OREGON PRIMARY.

RESULTS AS INDICATED.
(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)
PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 24.—The results of the primary election for the Oregon Assembly and the Oregon State Senate, held here today, showed that the so-called "Oregon system" of electing United States Senators, winning almost on a par with Ellis, according to early returns, is former United States Marshal Charles J. Smith, who made a campaign on an anti-Cannon platform. George Shepard, who appealed to the members of a party as a "plain Republican," is being far behind.

Mr. Woodward, the "Assembly" candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, seems to be fairly certain of winning over R. D. Dickinson, of Clatsop City, his nearest opponent, and his factional affiliation is not on the ballot.

Henry Albert, a believer in the new-fangled plan of nominating officers, and E. Hofer, who does make his factional position known, hopelessly beaten. The returns up to this hour tonight have been meagre.

PHYSICIAN-PLAYER, WRECK HERO, MINISTERS TO MAIMED

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)
DENVER, Sept. 24.—Survivors of yesterday's wreck on the Rock Island Railroad near Clayton, Kan., accord to Edward A. Stoffer, third baseman of the Topeka baseball club, the credit of being the hero of the catastrophe. Stoffer, who plays baseball in summer and practices medicine in winter, was able to put his surgical knowledge to practical use.

The Topeka team was riding in the first sleeper, immediately in the rear of the chair car, and experienced the full force of the shock. Jake Beckley, the veteran first baseman, was bruised and two of the other players were so much dazed that they were able to give little aid to those seriously hurt.

"JAKE BECKLEY'S STORY."
"I was badly scared, but I got out of the car," said Beckley today. "All the boys jumped right in and began pulling out those who were caught in the wreckage. Doc Stoffer started with what means there was at hand. Stoffer kept busily at work until the relief train came, near 8 o'clock."

Stoffer, who disclaimed any acts of heroism, said:

"I happened to have some bandages with me, so some one is nearly always getting hurt on the team, and I keep common remedies with me. All the injured were brought in to me, and I fixed them up temporarily. Three of them, however, were so badly hurt that I think they died soon afterward."

SIX ARE UNIDENTIFIED.
(ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.)
NORTON (Kan.) Sept. 24.—Six bruised bodies, mangled into shapeless things, remained to be identified today when officials of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad resumed their work of reconstruction, following the wreck two miles east of Clayton, Kan., early yesterday, in which sixteen persons were killed and eleven injured.

It is unlikely that the task can be completed soon. All the bodies were searched yesterday, and every clew which might lead to identification was carefully followed. For this reason officials fear the full death list will not be made up until the remaining bodies are traced through inquiries received from relatives.

STEAM SCALDS VICTIMS.
In some instances steam which rose in clouds from the engine as it plunged into the water, scalded the bodies, which increased the difficulty of identification.

Survivors say the cars were filled with steam, and it was possible to breathe only when crawling along the floor of the cars.

The inquiry into the reason why an abandoned train was given the long stretch of track was washed away has been instituted by the railroad officials.

RUCKER MAY BE REINSTATED.

MILWAUKEE HEALTH OFFICER ON THE FENCE.

Charges Made Against Him by Catherine Heideort. Girl's Condition Has Changed—Socialists Plan to Have Council Refuse to Accept His Resignation.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Sept. 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. W. C. Rucker, who resigned ten days ago as Health Commissioner, following sensational charges preferred against him by Catherine Heideort, employed as a domestic, and whose resignation was accepted by Mayor Seidel, after a study of the evidence submitted to him by the District Attorney, may be reinstated in his official position.

The charges against Rucker were dismissed in court today, following an important change in the girl's condition. It is now planned by the Socialists, who claim, through Victor L. Berger, that the commissioner's resignation never was accepted, to have the Mayor transmit the resignation to the Council Monday, and to ASK MR. TAFT FOR CLEMENCY.

Attorney Files Petition to Free Convict Banker.

Officials, Depositors and Jurors Are United.

Old Age, Failing Health and Losses Are Set Out.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—A petition to the President of the United States for the pardon of John R. Walsh, the former president of the Chicago National Bank, from the Federal Prison at Leavenworth, was filed at the Department of Justice today by Attorney George T. Buckingham of Chicago, on behalf of Mary L. Walsh, Richard W. Walsh and John W. Walsh, respectively, the wife and sons of the prisoner.

THOUSANDS OF LETTERS.
Accompanying the formal application for a pardon were thousands of letters from persons in Chicago and throughout the Middle West urging President Taft to grant the petition. The file of these letters comprised twenty-five bound volumes. Besides letters from personal friends and business associates, there were letters from all the officers and directors of the Walsh banks which were involved in the case; from the bank's stockholders and depositors, and from jurors who found Walsh guilty of having misappropriated funds of his banks.

Walsh was found guilty in 1907 of a violation of the United States banking laws, in having made excessive loans to railroads in which he was interested, and in December, 1908, he was sentenced to five years in Leavenworth Prison.

Mr. Walsh is 73 years old and the main motive in the appeal to the President is based on the prisoner's failing health. He is reported suffering from acute heart disease and physicians affirm that he is likely to die at any moment.

PARDON GROUNDS.
As set forth in the petition, the grounds on which his pardon is asked are as follows:

That the crime for which he was found guilty does not involve moral turpitude, and that none of the acts on which conviction was based were done for, or resulted in any profit to himself.

That the depositors in all the banks with which he was connected were paid in full and immediately.

That the loss of nearly all his own large personal fortune caused by the forced liquidation of these banking institutions is set out in the petition many times in excess of any usually imposed and is itself a most severe punishment already suffered.

That his loss of power, prestige and position, together with the humiliation of a conviction and imprisonment, is set out in the petition as having done him great injury.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Adolph Rothbart, the Hop merchant, who said he picked bank presidents to swindle because they were the easiest game, was remanded to the Tomb this afternoon to await sentence a week hence.

An indictment charging that he obtained loans on false representations, was returned against him today, and in the Court of Special Sessions he pleaded guilty.

He pleaded today only charges that he got $10,000 from the Mercantile National Bank, he admitted when arrested that the total loss to the Mercantile, the Liberty, and other banks would approximate $300,000, a statement in which he was confirmed by the banks.

RIDES THROUGH THE RAPIDS.

NEGOTIATES NIAGARA WHIRLPOOL IN BARREL.

"Bobby" Leach Has Small Audience. Drifts for Fifty-Five Minutes Before Rescued—Lands in Pretty Good Shape and Says He Will Make Another Trip Sunday Afternoon.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
NIAGARA FALLS (N. Y.) Sept. 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Bobby Leach of Niagara Falls, Ont., went through the Whirlpool Rapids in a steel barrel this afternoon, having started from the "Old Maid of the Mist" landing, on the New York shore.

He drifted about the whirlpool fifty-five minutes before friends caught his barrel and pulled him ashore.

The day was wet and dreary, a fact which resulted in a small audience outside of a few small boys just out of school. It was 3:57 o'clock when he drifted into the swirling rapids. The current swept him rapidly over the rocky bottom, and he drifted for a few minutes in a barrel that drifted about the pool for five hours.

In three minutes after passing under the railroad bridge the barrel in which Leach was given the long drift on the swirling waters of the pool. He was carried over to the North Canadian shore, and then the barrel was hoisted and swung toward Driftwood Point.

At one time he was within a few feet of the Canadian shore, but there was nobody there to rescue him. He finally was caught by William Hill of Niagara Falls, Ont., who grabbed the barrel with a pole pole and towed it to shore, and Leach hopped out in pretty good condition.

He says he expects to make another trip Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. If possible he will go to Lewiston, and then equal some of the trips of the late Carlisle D. Graham, who was the first to navigate the Niagara rapids in a barrel.

DELEGATES ARE UNPLEGGED.

New York Democrats at State Convention Will Loyally Support Choice for Governor.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, issued a statement last night following the publication of various rumors as to what might be expected of the New York delegation to the Democratic State Convention.

"I would like to have it understood distinctly that the delegates to the Democratic State Convention from Manhattan and the Bronx, who are here, are unpledged, and I am for no particular candidate, nor will the delegates have a candidate of their own."

He said the candidate for Governor would be named by the delegates from the interior of the State, and whoever is the choice, whether it be Mayor Gaynor or somebody else, he will have the loyal support of this organization.

DEATH DROP FROM WINDOW.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL MACHINIST KILLS HIMSELF.

Archibald J. McKillop, Assistant Superintendent of Locomotive Department, Ends Life After Long Period of Ill Health in Chicago. Not Connected With Graft Cases.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Archibald J. McKillop, for several years assistant superintendent of machinery of the Illinois Central Railroad in the locomotive department, committed suicide today by dropping from a second-story window of his house at No. 6089 Washington avenue. He struck on his head on the cement sidewalk and broke his neck, dying instantly.

Mr. McKillop, who was 44 years of age, had not been at the Burnside shops, where his headquarters are located, for three days, on account of illness. He is said to have been in the preliminary questioning by detectives in their investigation among the railroad employees McKillop was among those visited.

Walter T. Fisher, one of the special attorneys in charge of the railroad's case, said he did not know of anything connecting McKillop with the case.

E. C. Corwell, assistant to President Heranahan, said that there had been nothing to indicate that he had held any stock in the car repair plants charged with grafting, and that as he was in the locomotive end of the mechanical department rather than in the car department, he had nothing to do with the car repair work.

CRUSADE FOR A CLEAN CITY.

Seattle League to Ask for Recall of Mayor.

Will Charge Him With Malfeasance in Office.

To Rid City of Disorderly Houses and Gambling.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)

SEATTLE, Sept. 24.—The Public Welfare League perfected its plans today for the attempted ousting of Mayor Hiram C. Gill by the recall and the form of the recall petition has been drafted. It will request the removal of the Mayor on the ground that he is violating the law and is guilty of malfeasance in office by permitting the existence of a district inhabited by disorderly houses and gambling resorts.

To bring about a recall election, 30 per cent. of the total vote cast at the election last March must be represented on the petition. The Welfare League purposes to have the petition signed at once, but not to present it to the Council until January, so that the recall election may be held at the same time as the election to choose Councilmen.

The city has already decided upon the abolition of the present Council and the substitution of a smaller body elected at large.

Receipts written in Chinese, which were found in a safe seized in a Chinese gambling joint by the Sheriff last week, show that gambling conducted by a syndicate of fourteen Chinese, has been continuous since 1906, and has netted the syndicate nearly $5000.

The papers show that up to six months ago the net proceeds varied between $100 and $150 a day, but in the last six months they have averaged from $300 to $500 a day.

POLICE CHARGES.

As a step toward the accomplishment of his move to clean up the city during the absence of his vacation, Mayor H. C. Gill and Chief Police Wapenstien, Councilman Max Wardell, acting Mayor of Seattle, says he contemplates making extensive changes in the Police Department.

Mr. Wardell, it is learned, tendered the position of Chief of Police, yesterday, to Capt. Claud Bannick, who has been active in raids and crusades against gambling and other vice.

But, fearing, said, the loss of his place as Captain on the return of Mayor Gill, Bannick declined the offer. Six negro gambling clubs in the vice district were closed by acting Chief Powers last night, under instructions of the acting Mayor.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

RIVERSIDE (Cal.), Sept. 24.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) J. A. Roberts of Los Angeles was injured tonight in an automobile accident which occurred on this side of the West Riverside bridge. He was driving his Chalmers Detroit car, coming toward Riverside and took the turn this side of the bridge at too high speed. Wheels skidded and the machine plunged against a boulder at the side of the road. With him in the car were Logan and Roy Nettles and James Stewart of Wineville. Roy Nettles and Stewart were thrown out and badly injured. Roberts' injuries are not serious.

FIVE MEN ARE ACCUSED.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.)

CHICO, Sept. 24.—Five men were arrested last night by the local police on charges of criminal assault on the person of 15-year-old Alice Bailey, who resides with her father on the banks of the Sacramento River, directly west of this city. The father appeared at the Police Station and swore to the complaint on which the quietest were arrested. Three of the men charged were arrested at fish camps along the river, and the other two were found at their homes in this city.

STRANGE FATE OF FRESHMEN.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

TUCSON (Ariz.), Sept. 24.—The work-like importance of an Arizona freshman was effectively demonstrated last night by the sophomores of the university, who invaded the dormitories of the lower classmen and sheared every lamb. The job was not done very thoroughly, merely a deep furrow being cut through each freshman's locks. The barber shops were well patronized in the morning and a freshman is now to be recognized by his shaven head.

Ten Chinese were found yesterday by immigration inspectors, hidden in a sealed, freight car, billed for San Francisco. It is believed the aliens were loaded at El Paso, where a regular Chinese importation agency is known to exist. The captured Celestials already have been ordered deported.

Officer Roller has been restored to duty on the police force, after being held for a while to answer for shooting two Mexicans at a Democratic ward meeting just before the late election. It has been shown to the satisfaction of the City Council that Roller used his revolver merely to save himself from injury.

P. H. Johnston, an editor, has been released from jail on additional $3000 bonds, secured for him by members of the Tucson Workmen's Protective Association. He had been confined for two weeks.

A. W. Forbes has left Los Angeles to attend the Mining Congress, in which he is a member of the advisory board. The Arizonians are believed to be a unit in demanding the next congress for the town of Douglas.

James Pearce, who died a few days ago in Oakland, Cal., was the original locator of the great Commonwealth mine in Cobles, county, in the present town of Pearce.

ALIENS DENIED ADMISSION.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Refusing to give up two English valets, who accompanied him to this country from Hongkong, F. S. Minott, secretary of the Goodyear Rubber Company New York, remained aboard the steamer Chiyo, on the liner's arrival here yesterday. The immigration officials denied the Englishmen entry on the ground that they were contract laborers. Minott's remonstrance proving of no avail, he decided to stay aboard with his alien servants.

Buell delivered an address and a number of minor business matters came up but no action was taken. The annual meeting of the conference Ladies Aid Society was held, Miss Etta B. Lloyd of Pacific Grove, presiding. Addresses were delivered by Dr. J. H. N. Williams and Rev. E. R. Dille.

CRUSADE FOR A CLEAN CITY.

Seattle League to Ask for Recall of Mayor.

Will Charge Him With Malfeasance in Office.

To Rid City of Disorderly Houses and Gambling.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)

SEATTLE, Sept. 24.—The Public Welfare League perfected its plans today for the attempted ousting of Mayor Hiram C. Gill by the recall and the form of the recall petition has been drafted. It will request the removal of the Mayor on the ground that he is violating the law and is guilty of malfeasance in office by permitting the existence of a district inhabited by disorderly houses and gambling resorts.

To bring about a recall election, 30 per cent. of the total vote cast at the election last March must be represented on the petition. The Welfare League purposes to have the petition signed at once, but not to present it to the Council until January, so that the recall election may be held at the same time as the election to choose Councilmen.

The city has already decided upon the abolition of the present Council and the substitution of a smaller body elected at large.

Receipts written in Chinese, which were found in a safe seized in a Chinese gambling joint by the Sheriff last week, show that gambling conducted by a syndicate of fourteen Chinese, has been continuous since 1906, and has netted the syndicate nearly $5000.

The papers show that up to six months ago the net proceeds varied between $100 and $150 a day, but in the last six months they have averaged from $300 to $500 a day.

POLICE CHARGES.

As a step toward the accomplishment of his move to clean up the city during the absence of his vacation, Mayor H. C. Gill and Chief Police Wapenstien, Councilman Max Wardell, acting Mayor of Seattle, says he contemplates making extensive changes in the Police Department.

Mr. Wardell, it is learned, tendered the position of Chief of Police, yesterday, to Capt. Claud Bannick, who has been active in raids and crusades against gambling and other vice.

But, fearing, said, the loss of his place as Captain on the return of Mayor Gill, Bannick declined the offer. Six negro gambling clubs in the vice district were closed by acting Chief Powers last night, under instructions of the acting Mayor.

Wheels skidded and the machine plunged against a boulder at the side of the road. With him in the car were Logan and Roy Nettles and James Stewart of Wineville. Roy Nettles and Stewart were thrown out and badly injured. Roberts' injuries are not serious.

MILAN (Italy) Sept. 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Puccini and Mascagni have "kissed and made up," and should collaborate on an ode to macaroni. It happened at Cova's restaurant, where all Milan goes to eat spaghetti and macaroni. Toscanini entered with Mascagni and bumped into Puccini. Fashionable Milan waited in suspense for the discordant clash that all expected would follow the chance encounter of the two noted composers, who have been at sword's point for a long time.

Toscanini was again the happy director of the situation, even though in the operatic scales it was a comic opera, and by a dexterous move of his baton hand he hurled Mascagni into Puccini's fat arms, which opened to receive him. Then they made up, and the diners began anew their onslaught upon macaroni.

Mascagni told all about his coming tour in the United States with "Yohel," while Puccini forecasted the triumph he expects to achieve with "The Girl of the Golden West." Both composers were so happy talking about themselves they forgot their old quarrel, and drank toasts to each other's success in Golden America.

BRITISH ARMY HUMILIATION.

Generals Make "Muddle" of Maneuvers.

Scathing Criticisms by London Newspapers.

Kitchener Views Mimic Battle With Amusement.

TO THE TIMES.]
[Exclusive Dis-
The grand engagement at Chislebury Castle brought the British army maneuvers to an inglorious close yesterday.

The Blue army was commanded by Lieut.-Gen. Sir Henkel Plumer and the Red army by Lieut.-Gen. Sir Charles Douglas. Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, in civilian dress, looked on in grim amazement and consternation as these generals carried out evolutions utterly impossible in actual warfare.

The special correspondents of the London newspaper indulge in scathing criticisms of the generalship displayed and declare the battle "a fiasco," "a terrible muddle," "a travesty of warfare."

One described the engagement as "armies running amuck." The Daily Express says:

"Extra brigades were shifted about in such kaleidoscopic fashion that when 'cease fire' sounded the panorama of Red and Blue troops spread around was puzzling enough in its composition to cause experienced officers who witnessed its formation to throw up their hands in despair."

"It was a fearful and wonderful tangle, with entire companies of dead infantry resurrected and then sent back to their graves with apologies; with flank attacks that outflanked other flank attacks; and a nightmare combination of the Blue cavalry brigade and the Red infantry and artillery that shelled their enemies, their friends and neutrals."

The Daily News correspondent, who spoke to the foreign attaches watching the battle, was informed:

"Your soldiers? Yes, they are admirable. But your general—poor! A German officer shrugged his shoulders and remarked:

"The Daily News correspondent's own view was expressed thus:

"Whole brigades and battalions were brought under merciless rifle and artillery fire and left exposed to the long periods of decisive range. To the ordinary spectator the thing was nothing more than a farce."

Gen. Sir John French of Boer fame was the umpire, but withheld his decision. It cannot fail to be destructive of reputations of the two generals commanding.

Candidate Asks for Airing of Charges Which Forced Him from G.A.R. Leadership Contest.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—A court-martial probably will be one of the echoes of the G.A.R. encampment at Atlantic City.

Col. John McElroy of this city, who withdrew as a candidate for Commander-in-Chief today, in a letter view declared he had been forced out of the race by "slandering innuendo and stabs in the back."

Col. McElroy says a Washington G.A.R. man was the circulator of the charges, which the colonel declares are false. He has asked the Commander-in-Chief to name a court of inquiry to investigate the allegations made against him.

The controversy arose over the land deals which resulted in the G.A.R. colony at St. Cloud, Wis.

Health Restored After Losing 78 Pounds

Mr. Whipple, When So Weak From Diabetes That He Was Unable to Work, Was Completely Cured by

Warner's Safe Diabetes Cure

A short time ago he wrote: "About two years ago I began to lose my health. In two months' time I lost 75 pounds. I went to two hospitals—they did not tell me my trouble. The first week of last July I went to Monticello, N. Y., where I stayed one week. While there I saw a doctor and he told me I had Diabetes. The Sunday after I came home I purchased a New York paper, and my wife said 'Here is a Diabetes Cure; why not try it?' I went to a drug store and bought two bottles of Warner's Safe Diabetes Cure. After the first bottle I began to feel better after the second bottle I was ready to return to work, and I have been working ever since. The meantime I had had to give up my position."

"Now, to make it brief, I would not be without Warner's Safe Remedies in the house under any circumstances. Warner's Safe Pills are especially good. I hope this will be of great benefit to all others who suffer as I did. George E. Whipple, 780 Washington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y."

There is no disease more dreaded than Diabetes, for the reason that its supposition is that it cannot be cured and it is most remarkable the letters received from men and women who say they had Diabetes in its worst form and were completely cured and restored to health by Warner's Safe Diabetes Cure, which is one of the Warner's Safe Remedies, among them Warner's Safe Cure for the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, which has done so much good the past thirty years, and Warner's Safe Pills for constipation and biliousness. These remedies are sold by druggists everywhere.

If you have any of the symptoms of Diabetes send at once for a free sample bottle of the Diabetes Cure, or if you have kidney trouble ask for Warner's Safe Cure for the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood. State your case fully mentioning having seen this liberal offer in The Times, and our doctor will send you a sample and full directions how to treat yourself. All communications treated in strict confidence. Letters from women are answered by a woman doctor. WARNER'S SAFE CURE CO., Rochester, N. Y. The genuineness of this offer is fully guaranteed.

COPENHAGEN (Denmark) Sept. 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "How do you do, Mr. King?"

That was the conversation overheard today by The Times correspondent when a youngster of 10 years ran up to and addressed King Frederick. It is a snap-shot picture of the most democratic of kings, and his relations with his subjects.

It is only a fifteen-minute walk from Charlottenlund Castle, his summer home, to Evidort, the summer home of two of his sisters, Queen Alexandra of England, and Dagmar, the Dowager Czarina of Russia, but there is a gulf between that and the King's little of them. Their theories

LONDON, Sept. 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Do they know I am a great grandmother?" cheerily asked Sarah Bernhardt, the first thing on her arrival at Folkestone, as she surveyed a crowd of admirers gathered to greet her.

"It makes me feel so young." The great actress was in youthful spirits and delighted with everything, active, graceful, blooming—in fact, a marvelous example of sixty-five.

"Just think," she went on, "four generations of us. Do I look tired? Please don't say I do. I really never feel tired," she explained. "I attribute it to living for one thing—my art. Nothing else matters to me. I shall never retire. I dream of dying, like the great Irving, in the harness. Fancy dying after playing 'Bocket'! What could be more glorious?"

King Frederick moves in the neighborhood of his castle, which is rather thickly populated by small tradesmen and their families, who must spend their vacations near home. With them and their children he is ever an "old pal." He drops in on the elders without notice, and chats over local matters, while at every turn he greets the children in the friendliest manner. He enjoys this freedom immensely, and refuses to have a body guard. Seldom has he an attendant, and never more than one.

On the other hand, Alexandra and Dagmar bring to their summer retreat all the severe restrictions and etiquette that hedges them at home.

Arrest in Colton May Solve Police Problem.

Prisoner Talks With Man Much Wanted Here.

Will Be Confronted by the Victims Assaulted.

The arrest of Frank Pesarra in Colton, September 13, for beating his way on a train, may solve the identity of the band who assaulted several women in Boyle Heights.

Pesarra's capture, and subsequent arrest in this city, on a nominal charge of begging, was kept quiet by the police in order that he might be confronted by the victims.

What is considered the most damaging evidence against Pesarra is that while he accounts for his time previous to the night of September 14, on which date the wife of Dr. William Barnhart was assaulted, his replies are evasive when questioned as to that time.

Since the night Mrs. Barnhart was attacked, there have been no further outrages committed in Boyle Heights, of the nature that characterized the work of the band. The police were able to obtain from Dr. Barnhart a complete description of the assailant of his wife.

This description was sent out by the police to other cities. It was owing to this fact that the Colton authorities became convinced that the man arrested for riding without ticket answered the description of the Boyle Heights band. They communicated with the Los Angeles department and Pesarra was brought to this city yesterday and promptly arrested by Detectives Murray and McManis, as a vagrant, which brought him within the jurisdiction of the Los Angeles police courts.

Detectives are now tracing the suspect's movements. They will also confront him with the women who were assaulted. While Pesarra was being held in Colton, his photograph taken there was shown to Detective Murray to Mrs. Barnhart and she is said to have declared that it bore a strong resemblance to the man who assaulted her.

Pesarra himself gives his name as Pesarra and again he goes under the alias of Wilson. He resembles an Italian, but he told the detectives when he was locked up that he is a Hebrew.

BANDIT.

TAKES PURSE AT PISTOL POINT.

ROBBER COMPELS WOMAN TO GIVE UP MONEY.

Hold-up is committed on Street in Early Evening While Within a Block of the Place Hundreds of Persons Are Hurrying Home from Work—Police on the Trail.

While on her way home from downtown about 5:45 o'clock last night Miss Alice Corvill, living at No. 415 Loomis street, was held up by a highwayman at Orange and Loomis streets, and robbed of $5 and a gold watch pin. Miss Corvill is the second woman to be held up in the vicinity within a week. Within one block of the place where, at the point of a gun, Miss Corvill was giving up her purse, hundreds of people were hurrying home from work from many other places were seated on the front verandas of their houses, but she was unable to make an outcry until the robber had escaped.

Miss Corvill alighted from a street car at Sixth and Figueroa streets and then walked west on Orange street. Just before she reached the corner of Loomis and Orange streets the highwayman stepped quietly to her side and holding the muzzle of a large nickel-plated revolver against her side, told her to keep quiet and hand him her handbag. The street, though usually crowded with pedestrians at that hour in the evening, happened at the time to be entirely deserted except by Miss Corvill and the desperado.

On feeling the muzzle of the pistol against her body, Miss Corvill was almost paralyzed with fright, and she complied with the peremptory order. The man took the handbag, opened it and took out her purse. Then he returned the handbag to Miss Corvill and slipped the cash from the purse into his pocket.

"Now close your eyes and stand still until you count twenty-five, like this, one, two, three," the bandit said slowly, indicating the measure by which she was to count.

Miss Corvill closed her eyes as instructed and she heard the man step quickly on the sidewalk and then into the road, and she opened her eyes a trifle and watched. The man ran across the street and into a vacant lot which extends south of Seventh street. Because of the presence of some tall eucalyptus trees near by which shut off the light from street lamps on Figueroa street, Miss Corvill lost sight of the man within a few seconds.

The victim quickly recovered her composure and hurried to a near-by house and asked to use the telephone. She notified the police detective bureau, and two detectives were sent out to look for the man. They arrived in a short time, without gaining any clue to his identity.

According to the description furnished by Miss Corvill, the robber is about 24 years old, about five feet three or four inches tall, weighs about 135 pounds, has very prominent nose, medium brown hair and was dressed in a fairly good suit of dark clothes. He wore a dark felt hat.

A statement made by the police last night is to the effect that the attack made upon Miss Corvill was for robbery alone.

UNIONIST PLOT FRUSTRATED.

Police Appear on Scene in Time to Break Up Designs on Free Workman.

With a degree of cruelty surpassing that of the savages, unionists plotted yesterday morning to waylay Louis Ogrum, holding engineer at the Hall of Records, and beat and maim him to such an extent that he never again would be able to work at his trade.

The police, however, were notified of BUSINESS GOOD.

Business is good in Los Angeles. It must be. Else the Times could not continue as it has for years to lead the biggest newspapers in the largest cities in the country in volume of paid matter printed.

The subjoined tabulation shows that it exceeds its nearest contemporary, in Seattle, by over 1000 columns, for the month of August, 1910, and that the foremost papers in Chicago and New York are 1300 columns behind the record of the Los Angeles Times. Of course no local sheet stands anywhere in the comparison.

Prosperity reigns in Los Angeles, and merchants, as well as the Times, are to be congratulated over the prospects for a continuance of the present fine business outlook.

the plans of the barbarians, and they appeared on the scene in time to arrest two men on suspicion of felony. Ogrum escaped unharmed.

In a saloon near Fifth and Maple yesterday morning a laboring man overheard a conversation in which it was declared that Ogrum must be beaten up. Listening more attentively, he heard the plans for the brutal mistreatment, which was to consist of catching Ogrum last night on his return from lodge, and after beating him about the body, to break his knee caps so that he would never again be able to bend his knees.

So brutal seemed the plot that the listener had not the heart to go his way and let the ruffians follow up their plans, so he secured at the Central Station and made his statement. It was, in short, what he had overheard, and in the conversation the window of C. P. Stevens and Glad Mafrs figured prominently in the plot. The informant said that the plotters declared it would be easy to waylay Ogrum on his return from the Knights of Pythias Lodge. He would have to pass through a blue gum grove among the trees the work of maiming him for life could be quickly and easily done.

The operation of breaking the bones in Ogrum's knees was to be done with pieces of gas pipe.

The police, after learning of the plot, sent officers over to the Hall of Records where Ogrum was at work. They told him of the plot and he said that he did not intend to leave his home that night. The police, however, were eager to catch the ruffians and they told Ogrum to go on ahead and wait for them at his usual time, and that police protection would be given him.

Acting on the instructions of the police, Ogrum left his home early last evening and returned as usual. The

LISTEN TO YOUR STOMACH

It Gives Words of Most Serious Warning and Appeals Aloud for Help.

When by over-eating and excess, poor cooking and imperfect mastication, late hours and physical abuse, your stomach is depleted of its strength and lies irritated and sick, then it is that this wonderful machine signals for help and begins to talk. Listen to it. Sometimes it says don't eat so much, don't give me such work to do.

Straight Talk From the Stomach.

The stomach does not talk like you would like it to, but you should listen and you should heed.

When food breath makes people turn away from you, when pains and nausea come and go before and after meals, when gases distend your abdomen and affect your heart, when false appetite and abnormal craving comes to you, when the sight of a meal makes you sick and when many other events of like character happen, your stomach is talking.

It is trying to tell you that its peristaltic or churning muscles are irritated and unfit for duty, that alkali is filling the stomach and digesting and eating the membrane within, that the juices are not doing their work and the system is permitting the food to lie for hours, eventually degenerating and passing to the bowels, where such food is absorbed in a poisonous state and taken up by the lymphatic system and the blood.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will give to the stomach all it needs. They ease up the peristaltic muscles, they dilute the alkali juices, enrich them and digest the food when the stomach is unable to do so.

Don't say they cannot help you. Why, these tablets will digest a hearty meal placed in a glass tube, without aid from the stomach.

One grain of a single ingredient will digest 3000 grains of food. It is due your stomach to reply to its appeal. Send today for a trial package of these digesters. It will prove these tablets marvelous, and the answer will come from your stomach. Send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package free by mail. Address P. A. "NO BACKBONE" MAYOR IS TOLD.

Warmest Water Meeting in City's History.

Crown City Getting Hot Under the Collar.

OF THE TIMES, No. 28, Raymond Ave.
PASADENA, Sept. 25.—One of the most enthusiastic and interesting public meetings ever held in the "dry tract" was that of last night when over a hundred men and women earnestly intent on doing the very best they can to secure water and save their homes gathered at the Grover Cleveland school for the purpose of determining what to do. The meeting was called for 7 o'clock and continued until nearly midnight. Arguments and discussions on every phase of the situation were heard.

The meeting was absolutely non-partisan and non-factional. The one feeling was to get water but the people of that district are ever mindful of their best interests and when they do get water they are determined not to let themselves up in any foolish contract.

Mayor Earley started the ball rolling with a long historical speech outlining all the factional and other kinds of fights ever carried on in the city. He stated that he represented no water company or corporate interest but all his argument was in favor of having the Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company get their mains on the dry tract. He could say nothing in favor of the North Pasadena Water Company but left it to Tom Stone, for many years director in that company, to state to the people that if they will appoint a committee to visit the officials of the company, they will probably get water.

Following the Mayor ex-Judge Magee took the floor and spoke for half an hour. "The trouble with our city is bad distribution of water," said he. "We have water but it is not distributed. We need a committee from the Board of Trade which is trying to solve this question and we need your support every one of you to make it a success. Failure in the city to buy out these water plants many years ago has set our city back fully five years, and has cost us many thousands and thousands of dollars."

There are only two things to do. One is to have the ownership of the water consolidated. Then you will get the same amount as any one in the city and will pay the same amount of money for it.

QUIZ THE MAYOR.

Following the address of Magee several interested citizens asked questions. President Taylor of the Citizens' League asked Mayor Earley if the Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company had not, "I understand," said Taylor, "that you were to bring some proposition on which we could think about. If you have none then I don't see that we can accomplish anything. If you are up here simply as a speaker, I think you had better go back and get some proposition. I don't believe the people here will ever sign up all this to the highest court in the land. We will pay our share of the water rents on the municipal rates."

"If that is all you will do," said the Mayor, "I don't believe the company will ever put in a main for you."

"If we were to pay for running a main down here, would we ever have any certainty of getting water?" asked Taylor. "It seems to me we would have to start another lawsuit to compel them to keep furnishing us water."

LADY'S HOT SPEECH.
Then the surprise of the meeting was sprung when someone suggested that Miss Philanthia Michaelson, attorney for the Citizens' League, be given a chance to say something. Neither Mayor Earley nor Mr. Magee knew she was in the room. She called into her argument with a deliberate and simple intended to recite nothing but facts. First, she roasted Mr. Magee for insinuating that she as an attorney was trying to spend the people's money by keeping the case in court.

"I have never received a cent for my services," she said. "I will carry this to the Supreme Court of California and then to the Supreme Court of the United States. I sell my brains to the people as an attorney, but I sell my heart to no one."

"In the first place, we appealed to the City Council for relief and we got nothing. That ought to be the end of it. They turned a deaf ear to us. The only thing left to do was to go to court, which we did. It was not to get a decision from the Supreme Court but to get the highest court in the land. I say we will get water. Judge Harvey never decided our case on the law. He never considered that the North Pasadena company is using the public streets of this city. He never took into consideration that this company has had condemnation proceedings in the name of the people. Then they mean to tell me that it is not a public service corporation," said the lady attorney, as she shook her finger under the nose of the Mayor.

Continuing, she said: "The municipal government of this beautiful city can compel that company to furnish us water at the municipal rates if it had backbone enough to go ahead. The City Attorney said it is a public service corporation, and yet the Council has done nothing with that conclusion."

"If a railroad company wants to get right of way it proceeds to condemn land for the road of the people in general. When the North Pasadena Land and Water Company wanted to cross private ground it condemned its right of way in the name of the people. If this city wants to condemn the water companies in the name of the people and for the benefit of the people, all it has to do is to proceed. It has the law, but doesn't seem to want to do it."

If the Lake Vineyard Water Company wants to furnish the people of the dry tract with water let them make a plain business proposition. But let it be business-like and honest. Don't have any strings tied to it, and let there be nothing held back to trap the people. Let them come out squarely and openly. That is the way to do business."

PLAY POLO ON BURROS.

The second of Director Swarthout's Saturday afternoon field events at Carmelita playgrounds was pulled off before a large and appreciative crowd yesterday. The most interesting of the sports was the boys' burro polo game. While playing polo on unbroken burros, just from the mountains, is not so fast and furious as that played by crack players on their trained ponies, yet it has an element of uncertainty and true sportsmanship never brought out in the world's famous polo games. For instance, one of the difficult feats is to get the burro to move at the right time and another is to get a burro which is not afraid of the ball.

Guiding the burros and making quick dashes are other difficult stunts which would jar the nerves of real polo artists, but it is all fun for the boys. The game was much one-sided because the boys played with as much gusto as they could and the burros were not. The score was 7 to 0 in favor of the Richards team, composed of Frame, Slau, and Slau. The 50-yard dash for boys under 14: Russ won, Stevens second. The 100-yard dash for boys over 14: Newby won, McDonald second. The 100-yard dash, same winners. Three-legged race for boys: Sykes and Lancaster won, Johnson and Newby second. Back race: Shafer won, Thome second. The 50-yard dash for girls under 14: Edith Perkins won, Hazel Kelly second. The 50-yard dash for girls over 14: Flora Kahl won, Kate Shafer second. Ball throwing for girls: Olive Peterson won, Viola Ricker second.

VICTIM OF OVERWORK.

Rev. Charles W. Weiser, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, was taken from Justice McDonald yesterday morning on a warrant sworn out by the police, charging him with insanity. He was sent to the County Hospital. Early yesterday morning Weiser called up the police station and requested the officers to come to his home, No. 419 North Raymond avenue, to protect him from an army of dangerous men who, he said, were threatening to enter his home and kill him. He found the neighborhood as quiet as a graveyard with the exception of a few hounds barking. The man was taken to the City Jail and insisted that people were threatening to shoot him.

Rev. Weiser has been pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church for several years and is popular with his congregation. For years he has been a hard worker and a close student. He was formerly a street car conductor in Los Angeles and studied theology after his day's work was done. From this beginning he worked himself up to a high standing in the city and in his church. His death is a great loss to the city and a great loss to the church. He was a man of many warm friends here that will be a great loss to the city.

BAN ON SMOKING.

In his opening address before the teachers of the public schools yesterday morning Superintendent Hargrave gave the teachers a most sound advice and definite instructions to be observed during the present school year. "Smoking among the students of the schools and particularly the High School, must be absolutely stopped," he said. "It is a disgrace to our schools to have those of our universities, but we must impress upon them that the Pasadena High School will not tolerate such habits. It is a disgrace to our law that no pupil who uses tobacco in any form will be allowed to participate in any of the various athletic events. He also dwelt at length on the fact that pupils must not be 'fished' if it is possible to avoid it."

SIGNS FIRST VETO.

Early yesterday morning Mayor Earley affixed his veto signature to the anti-Sunday theater ordinance, which passed the City Council last Tuesday by a vote of 10 to 4. The veto will cause the ordinance to be brought up again in the next Council meeting, at which he will vote in favor of it to pass it over his veto. Councilman Hotelling was not present at the last meeting and did not vote. Should he vote for it, the ordinance will become a law, but should he vote against it there is no chance of carrying the ordinance unless some of the Councilmen should change their minds. When he vetoed it Mayor Earley stated that it is the first time he has vetoed an ordinance during his two terms in office.

VETO, HIS THEME.
Tonight Dr. Matt S. Hughes, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will discuss the veto Mayor Earley has placed on the anti-Sunday ordinance. The subject of his sermon will be, "The Economics of Christianity." Dr. Hughes is expected to deliver a series of sermons of all kinds and his address is expected to be a severe criticism of the city's chief, as well as some of the officials. He will speak in the morning services Dr. Hughes will take for his subject, "Gifts and Graces," in which he will hand out some advice to those who will enter school the coming week.

Rev. Dr. F. Fox, pastor of the First Congregational Church, will preach at the morning services on "The Best Uses on the Sabbath." Rev. Dr. Albert Hatcher Smith, pastor of the First Baptist Church, who has been touring the East during the summer, returned to his flock yesterday and will preach both the morning and evening sermons at his church today.

ANOTHER BURGLARY.

Some time night before last the house of Mrs. Mary Post, No. 707 North Marengo avenue, was entered by burglars and everything from cellar to garret was turned topsy-turvy. Mrs. Post has been away from home several days and left the keys to her home with neighbors. When they entered yesterday morning they found the house had been sacked in the night. This is but one of the several small burglaries which have been done in the last week with no clues to the perpetrators.

One of the charming events of yesterday was the card party given by Mrs. C. J. Bailew at her home in honor of Mrs. Charles E. Johnson of Arizona.

Mrs. Karl Elliott of Los Lunas street gave an appetizing luncheon at her home yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Essie Vanderpool of Los Angeles.

FUND PROVIDED TO MAINTAIN IT.

VOICE OF THE BASS DRUM IS NOT HUSHED.

Long Beach Lawmakers Avert an Artistic Catechism and a Feeling of Calm Contentment Prevails the Baseline Broad—Los Angeles Dock and Terminal Company Get More Time.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 24.—The Long Beach Municipal Band will continue as a feature of the city attractions. Last night the City Council voted to appropriate to the entertainment fund for the support of the band all monies derived from personal tax collections and railroad assessments, and all other monies not appropriated. This will place in the fund about $12,000, which will be sufficient to maintain the band until spring, when it is thought other funds will be available to continue the balance of the year. Hereafter, however, the band will play only in the city parks and the auditorium, and if the bathhouse company desires any special concert on the Pike it will have to employ the band. Director Wiley today engaged E. L. Stenberger, trombone soloist, and M. Johnson, clarinetist, as members of the band.

GIVEN MORE TIME.

In a communication to the City Council Auditor Hatch last night notified them that the time given the Los Angeles Dock and Terminal Company for the completion of the ocean pier and the harbor had expired, and the company had forfeited the $50,000 bond it had put up for completion of its contract. General Manager Curtis explained that the company had been handicapped in its work by the high tide, and also that the jetties 200 feet further than agreed upon. He asked that the Council grant the company an extension of time to December 1, which after discussion was granted.

NEWS BRIEFS.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Inner Harbor Gas Company this morning the sale of the company's properties to the Consolidated Gas Company was ratified. The stockholders secured a bond issue of $140,000 in stock in the new company for their holdings.

Elmer Stocking, master boatbuilder of the Fulton Marine Works, slipped and fell on the floor of the skating rink last night and sustained a broken arm and the dislocation of his left ankle.

The Pacific Electric has paid into the city treasury $150,000, 2 percent of its gross income on the American avenue lines the past year. The money is being sent to the city under the terms of the original franchise.

Notice was received by local insurance agents from the Pacific Board of Underwriters that, hereafter, the recently-annexed territory will have the same insurance rates as the old city. After a former resident of this territory, George Meier and Barton will accompany Miss and Mrs. Lawson to San Diego where Miss Lawson will endeavor to swim from National City to Point Loma, a distance of fourteen miles.

The largest yellowtail ever caught on the Long Beach pier was caught yesterday by H. F. Garnock, a rancher. The fish weighed 125 pounds and was a twenty-minute fight. It weighed forty-six pounds.

Exhibits of local artists were shown tonight at the Civic Library. Over two hundred separate displays of oil paintings and decorated china were shown, and attracted much attention.

GET CONTRACTS.

Awards Made for Installation of Improvements Planned for Soldiers' Home.

SOLDIERS' HOME, Sept. 24.—The Hammel Oil Burner Company of Los Angeles has secured the contract for installing new furnaces for the six 100-horsepower Sterling water-tube boilers, a blower-pipe line, and a heating and automatic regulating oil-pumping system. Haas & Edinger of Santeeville has secured the contract for installing a new plant in the main kitchen for $1500. To Crickshank & Somers of Los Angeles was awarded the contract for converting the second story of the bakery into a six-room dormitory, for occupation by employees in that place, to cost $125.

ENDURING MARKS.

When a veteran is buried in the Home cemetery a neatly inscribed wooden headboard temporarily marks the last resting spot—to be substituted later by a more durable headstone, furnished by the United States through the War Department. This was done once every day. The day arrived a few days ago a carload of white marble headstones, which are being set, for greater endurance, in cement blocks under contract by J. D. Kneen of Santa Monica.

The Wielands of Los Angeles, in a closely contested game today, gave the Soldiers' Home baseball team the first beating the latter has experienced for many weeks. Although errors were abundant, it was one of the most interesting games, to the spectators, that has been seen on the grounds. The score was: Wielands, 4; Soldiers' Home, 2.

COMMISSION IS PROPOSED.

Santa Monica Times Already of Its Freshhold Charter—They Would Try Something Else.

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 24.—Twice during the present week private meetings have been held by those who are in favor of the substitution of the commission form of government for the present system as provided by the freshhold charter. The plan upon which they are working is fashioned after the Des Moines system, the idea being to have the places of the seven Councilmen and Mayor filled by three active commissioners, to be elected by the people. The prime movers in this matter argue that the city could well afford to pay three men salaries which would be ample to compensate them for the time required in the management of the city on the same lines as a successful business concern is conducted. No date has yet been announced for a public meeting in which the commission plan of government is to be explained.

HORSE COSTS MUCH.

Those who favor the commission form of government say that it would be unlikely under the non-political plan of management that the city would for three years hire a cheap horse to pull a car. The horse in question was hired three years ago at $1 per day, and the animal is still on the payroll. In that time the animal has received a wage check aggregating $1000. The city needed the horse at that time but did not feel that it could afford to purchase the animal for $100. But the horse has been working and used, and the city has fed it and kept it shod and furnished medical attention when necessary.

VENICE.

VENICE, Sept. 24.—Information was received here today to the effect that John J. Coit, a resident of this beach, had been killed while at work on the construction of the Panama Pacific miniature railway, engines and rolling stock, and operated the line for a number of years. He recently visited here and was at that time developing plans for the building of a long miniature railway line that was designed to reach many of the attractive points on Santa Catalina Island.

At the regular meeting of the Azusa Chamber of Commerce this week, it was unanimously decided to endorse the proposed bond issue of $140,000 for the improvement of Center street and Azusa avenue, and it was recommended that a mass meeting of citizens be called for discussing the matter.

A FREE MEDICAL EXAMINATION

FOR JUST ONE MORE WEEK DR. SHORES & SHORES

the popular catarrh and chronic disease experts extend to the sick their great offer of a MEDICAL EXAMINATION TO DEMONSTRATE THEIR ABILITY and to show whether or HOW they can be PERMANENTLY CURED. Dr. Shores knows

Chronic and Nervous Diseases

And know how to cure them. There are no strings to this offer. All are invited—difficult and obscure cases especially. Compare Dr. Shores' ideas with what your doctor has already said you may lead you in the way of regaining your health. Hundreds applied last week for the free examinations and many learned for the first time what their ailments really were and the cause of their sickness.

Catarrh in The Head and Throat

This form of catarrh is most common—resulting from neglected colds—quickly cured with little cost by Dr. Shores' Famous Treatment.

"Is your nose stopped up?"
"Does your nose discharge?"
"Is your nose sore and tender?"
"Is there pain in front of head?"
"Do you hawk and clear the throat?"
"Is your throat dry in the morning?"
"Do you sleep with your mouth open?"
"You can be easily cured now—don't let it run into complications."

When catarrh of the head or throat is neglected or wrongly treated it extends to the stomach, the bronchial tubes, and after awhile attacks the lungs. Quickly cured with little cost by Dr. Shores' Famous Treatment.

"Have you a cough?"
"Do you take colds easily?"
"Have you pain in the side?"
"Do you rain frothy mucus?"
"Do you spit up little cheesy lumps?"
"Do you feel you are growing weaker?"
"Don't risk neglecting these warning signs of disease before it reaches the lungs."

The Bronchial Tubes

Catarrh of the stomach is usually caused by eating rich, greasy, and spicy food. Dr. Shores' Famous Treatment cures it quickly. When caught at the first sign, it is easily cured. When caught later, it is more difficult to cure. When caught at the first sign, it is easily cured. When caught later, it is more difficult to cure.

WEIRD VIGIL. FAITHFUL IN DEATH WATCH.

THREE DAYS WITHOUT FOOD OR WATER.

Pathetic Scene Presented When

Coroner Appeared to Hold Inquest

Killed—Man Who Embarrassed Diamonds Gets Five-Year Sentence.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 24.—To remain for three days and two nights on the floor, keeping a weird vigil beside the dead body of the man who was accidentally killed by the discharge of his shotgun. The accident occurred far out on the desert. Miners, attracted by the body's wailing, found her standing beside the body, her two small children asleep near by.

A long ride was made to the nearest telephone point and Coroner C. D. Van Winkle notified. The long, rough ride over the mountains and desert, occupied three days and nights. It required three hours to cover a mile so steep were the grades or so deep the desert sands.

Long before he arrived in sight of the corpse the squaw's wailing, as she chanted the dirges of the morning, was heard. In the gray of the morning the Coroner reached the body. The sight of the Indian woman, standing erect at the foot of her dead husband, her black hair flying in the breeze, presented a ghastly picture, heightened by the chant of the dirges.

The squaw had broken all the brave's crockery against a tree, had flattened out his spools, forks and other utensils on the rocks, and had staked the two horses near the body, preparing to stay there until the Coroner came. During the long vigil the woman had taken nourishment of no kind, and would only eat after the body had been covered in the ground.

FIVE YEAR SENTENCE. O. H. Scott, sentenced yesterday to serve five years in San Quentin for embezzling diamonds from Mrs. Anna B. Marvan of Del Rio, is on his way to prison, having served his speedy departure, as he wished to commence his sentence at once. Judge F. F. Oster signed an order citing Ernest Morley of Ontario to appear before him on October 2, and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt. In having discussed the Scott case with a B. Chowling, a neighbor, during the trial.

SURPRISE WEDDING. Miss Edna Bule of No. 655 Court street, and Anson West, a Los Angeles traveling man, figured in a surprise marriage at Riverside last night. They left here in an automobile. This morning when it became known they were married quite a flutter was caused among the bride's friends, not an inkling of her romance having been allowed to escape, even her parents being kept in utter ignorance.

TO RECEIVE BANKERS. The Chamber of Commerce, through President W. W. Wilson, Jr., is arranging a reception to visiting bankers who pass through this city during the latter part of next week to attend the bankers' convention at Los Angeles on September 30 and August 1 and 2. Short stops have been arranged here.

NEWS BRIEFS. A local Hiram Johnson club was quietly organized here last night. J. J. Hanford, one of the leaders in the Johnson movement in San Bernardino, issued 200 cards for the meeting. The club organized with John Brown as president; W. C. Anderson, vice-president; W. F. Lemon, secretary and J. Blaine Miller, treasurer.

Company K, very strong, is preparing to leave for Atascadero next Saturday. Today Byron Allen, the newly-elected captain of the company, resigned his commission. The company has been brought to a splendid standard of efficiency. Allen is an old member of the militia who has the confidence of all the men.

Kindness will make baby strong. BELL AND SPELLACY SPEAK. Large Crowd Gathers Candidates at Ventura—Building Jetty on Santa Clara River.

VENTURA, Sept. 24.—Theodore Bell and Timothy Spellacy, Democratic candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, addressed a large crowd in this city today in front of the post-office, speaking from an automobile. The candidates were introduced by Paul Charlebois, an old-time Democratic leader of this county. The speakers were well received and their addresses listened to with attention by the crowd. They left for Oxnard immediately after the meeting by auto, from which place they will go to Los Angeles.

TO BUILD JETTIES. On Monday County Surveyor Everett with a gang of men, will begin the construction of protective work in the Santa Clara River near Sagay above the Montalvo bridge. The storm waters in the river have given trouble each winter, and have damaged the bridge. It will be four feet high and will consist of 200 cords of willow brush tied in bundles 16 feet long. These will be tied with wire and weighted down with concrete blocks. There will be six miles of this work. It is reported that he will gather silt and deposit it and in time form a permanent protection.

JAILED FOR CONTEMPT. Presley Holt, because he failed to obey the injunction of the court and send $2 weekly for the support of his two minor children, and because he failed to write weekly to the probation officer of his whereabouts and doings, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Ortega to serve fifteen days in the County Jail. Holt's wife recently secured a divorce from him on the ground of failure to provide. He was ordered to pay for the support of his children, and wandered away, failed to send money, and was sent after and rounded up in San Bernardino.

NEWS BRIEFS. Philmore, a growing section in the eastern part of this county, is to have a new hotel, to be erected by E. L. Booth, who has purchased twelve lots at Santa Clara and Philmore streets, on which to erect the new building, which will be of concrete. It will contain twenty bedrooms and be equipped with all modern improvements. Work

Pure Water.

It is Just as Essential to Your General Health as Plenty of Pure Food, Dr. Puritas Distilled Water, is the Only Reliable Pure Water Obtainable Hereabouts.

Some folks are exceedingly careful of the food they eat. They take every precaution to see that it is pure and wholesome.

This is a very good thing to do—a wise precaution. But, perhaps these very people take no precautions whatever to see that the water they drink is pure water.

A matter of common sense should give the water question careful consideration. Pure, soft drinking water—plenty of it—has a double benefit for those who drink it. Not only does it quench the thirst, but it tends to keep the body sweet and clean, to assist the organs in performing their functions.

Some times this does not come at once, but there is always danger of it. In the case of highly mineralized water, like most of the natural waters of California, the mineral is so entirely dissolved in the water, and not to be removed by any filter or other mechanical device, that it is impossible to get pure water, you get the mineral trouble.

Puritas Distilled Water is pure, soft water, the most "natural" water, and a most agreeable to the palate. It is distilled from pure cane. We bottle it in clean glass demijohns, so carefully that all its wholesomeness is preserved.

Puritas is very inexpensive. Five gallons, but 40c delivered within the old city boundary line. At outside points the cost is a trifle more, owing to the cost of delivery.

Puritas can be had through dealers in most towns in Southern California. If you are unable to find it, write us, and we will see that you are supplied. Regular Puritas customers purchase Coupon Books, thus securing Puritas at a discount. When you telephone, ask about these. Home 1000, Sunset Main 1191, Los Angeles Ice & Cold Storage Co.

ANAHEIM. ANAHEIM, Sept. 24.—Santos Carrion, Jr., a young Mexican, shot himself with a revolver through the left wrist last evening, and at the same time came near killing J. Casou. Carrion had just quarreled with his wife, and to draw his disarming troubles went to drinking. After drinking a few glasses he told some of his friends he intended to kill himself, at the same time drawing a revolver, which he commenced to flourish. While fooling with it the gun went off, he says accidentally, and the bullet passed through his left wrist, just missed the head of J. Casou and imbedded itself in the wall of the room. The wrist bone was shattered, but the doctor thinks he will not lose his hand.

Col. J. O. Royer has donated a block of land on Walnut street, near his residence, together with a carload of lumber and an old two-story dwelling, to be torn down and replaced by the Knights of Pythias Lodge of this city, to enable the lodge to build a clubhouse and prepare a suitable parade ground on which the Uniform Rank members can hold their drills and parades.

PLANTS BROOD CORN. T. J. Overstreet planted about four acres in Cherry Valley in broom corn last spring, and he reports that his crop will bring him $250. The irrigation of this crop cost $4.70. The quality of the corn is very fine. There are a good many five-acre pieces in this valley which could be put into broom corn, and would prove a profitable crop to the owners. This was Mr. Overstreet's first experience in broom corn, and he thinks he can do much more. Another acre in broom corn, from $125 to $150 per ton, the seed being worth about $20 per ton also.

WIDOW MUST DEFEND OLD "LUCKY'S" WILL.

Her Great Array of Lawyers, Who Forced a Settlement, Now Bound to Resist Turnbull Onslaught—A New Phase to the Big Fees.

ALTHOUGH sisters in their ambition to grab a chunk out of the estate of the late E. J. Baldwin, Mrs. Lillian Ashley Turnbull and Mrs. Baldwin will be found arrayed against each other in court.

By a clause in her contract of settlement with Baldwin's daughters, the widow will be compelled to put up a fight to prevent this latest claimant from breaking old "Lucky's" will.

More literally, it is the distinguished soft compromise, is now a burning adheret to the fighting principle.

ROAD A VISTA.

Those who are intimate with the facts assert that Mrs. Turnbull came into the case with the hope of forcing a settlement.

As she once sued Lucky Baldwin for reduction, she has a tough prospect of establishing her claims as a wife and widow.

Although it would probably be cheaper to settle with her than to endure

a long will contest, the widow and the daughters are understood to be of the one mind that to compromise this claim would simply have the effect of inviting innumerable others.

They could settle with real widows, but to compromise with the common-law variety, opens too wide a vista in the case of a man like "Lucky" Baldwin.

By a curious coincidence, Mrs. Ashley-Turnbull's interests are represented by one of the attorneys who was employed years ago to prosecute her suit for reduction, and branch of promise to his daughters.

The reduction suit was at first brought in Los Angeles, and A. W. Williams, now of the firm of Hutton & Williams, was retained by the plaintiff.

The case was afterward transferred to San Francisco, and was tried by a firm of San Francisco attorneys, Hutton & Williams, associated with Isadore B. Dockweiler and two eastern attorneys in prosecuting her claims against the estate.

Mrs. Turnbull's reduction suit is famous in the annals of California law on account of the extraordinary plea advanced by Baldwin's lawyers. They contended before the jury that no girl could be seduced by "Lucky" Baldwin, because his reputation among women was so notorious that every girl would realize that she was going into danger by associating with him.

As a professional matter, the attorneys for the estate feel disappointed that it is doomed to drag on in the courts for a long time. But for this contest, it would have broken all records for celebrity of settlement—at least among great estates.

REPUBLICAN RALLY.

Initial Meeting of Campaign Will Be Held Tomorrow Night at Simpson Auditorium.

The first big Republican rally of the campaign will be held at Friday night at the Simpson Auditorium. Seven-thirty o'clock is the hour set for the meeting.

Chairman Russ Avery of the Republican County Central Committee announced last night that several prominent speakers have been secured for the evening, and it is planned to launch the campaign with vigor.

From now on a lively campaign will be waged. Headquarters have been opened in the Broadway Central building, and the secretary of the County Central Committee, or one of his assistants, will be on duty throughout the day.

MAKES SMALL HAUL.

By means of a pass key, a thief gained entrance to the rooms of Mrs. E. B. School in the Duke Apartments, No. 648 Carondelet street, Friday afternoon, and took a purse containing array of attorneys who appeared for Mrs. Baldwin who have obligated themselves to protect the Baldwin fortune from any more raids such as they made.

Wherefore, Mrs. Ashley-Turnbull's claims for recognition as the common-law widow will be resisted, not only by the attorneys of the estate, but by Garrett McInerney, Gage & Foley and the firm of Gibson, Trask, Dunn & Crutch-

er. At the time of the making of this contract of settlement between Mrs. Baldwin and her step-daughters, no one ever dreamed that this peculiar clause would ever be fulfilled.

In his will the old millionaire sporting man left everything worth mentioning to his daughters.

His late widow engaged the attorneys above mentioned and prepared for a tremendous onslaught against the estate. Before it got into court, her suit was compromised by their San Francisco counsel to settle in order to avert exactly what has happened, anyhow.

They knew that if the estate were ever carried into court and Baldwin's record laid bare, the scandal would attract any number of claimants, both fake and possibly genuine.

They were hurried to this decision because another widow bobbed up in Oakland with a claim against the estate before Mrs. Baldwin's fight could be compromised.

A FIGHTING BARGAIN.

The daughters were forced into a hard bargain with the widow. They had to pay her nearly a million dollars for herself, and something in the neighborhood of half a million to her lawyers. It was further provided that the widow's share was to be paid out of the first money realized by the executor, and the daughters were to wait for their share.

In consideration of this heavy fee—between $400,000 and $600,000—the attorneys, as stated, agreed to defend the estate from all comers.

Although it was rather more of a formal matter than anything else, it is stated that the attorneys will make good their promise. They will associate themselves with whoever are employed by the estate.

In the preparations for the coming contest, the genuine widow intends to show the common-law widow that there exists a vast and engulfing difference between Tweddle Dum and Tweddle Dee.

Although it was considered best to settle with Mrs. Baldwin rather than stand a fight against the estate, in this latter instance it will be the policy of the estate to fight rather than settle.

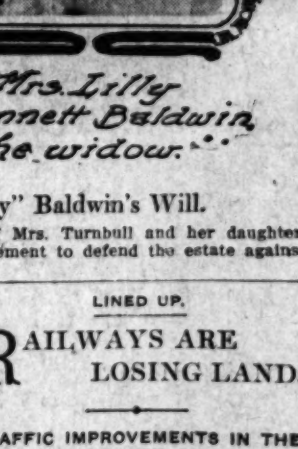

Mrs. Clara Stocker, daughter.

Mrs. Anita McCloughy, daughter.

Mrs. Lillian Ashley-Turnbull, latest claimant.

Mrs. Lilly Bennett Baldwin, the widow.

Figures in the Impending Fight to Break "Lucky" Baldwin's Will.

The real widow and the daughters are of one mind in resisting the claims of Mrs. Turnbull and her daughter. And the former's attorneys are bound by a clause in her settlement agreement to defend the estate against this new attack.

TORTILLA TAX STARTS ROW.

McMillan Objects to Prices at Casa Verdugo.

Senora Piedad Yorba y Sowl Ordered to Vacate.

Huntington Is Petitioned to Countermand Edict.

The fate of Casa Verdugo, one of the few surviving landmarks of the romance days of Southern California, is trembling in the balance. General Manager McMillan of the Pacific Electric Railway has decreed that on November 1 Senora Piedad Yorba y Sowl, the quaint little dancer of La Cacha and the Sombbrero Blanco, the famous cul-de-sac of the tangle, the enclinda and the tortilla must abandon the shelter of the historic adobe. The entire community of country homes which has been built up around the gardens of the hacienda has framed a petition to H. E. Huntington asking him to come to the rescue.

The adjacent property owners have represented to Mr. Huntington that they purchased their homes believing that Casa Verdugo enhanced the value of the property, managed as it has been as an exclusive and high-class resort for dinner parties. Senora Yorba y Sowl has maintained all the place the atmosphere of the old Spanish home and has steadily refused to cater to any but the most desirable and respectable class of patronage. Her neighbors now maintain that they are unwilling to take chances on the introduction of a more commercial spirit into the business.

The present difficulty is an outcome of arrangements which the Entertainment Committee of the bankers' convention took up with the Sows some time ago. They proposed to entertain the visiting ladies with a Spanish dinner under the ramada. They wanted accommodations for 500, a course dinner with music, dancing and all the other typical entertainment offered.

EXCEEDS THEIR FILE.

The size of the party was beyond the capacity of the place under ordinary circumstances, but Senora Sowl said that she would not count the wear and tear on the traditions of the patio, but would make a very reasonable price. Motley H. Flint and M. P. Snyder were shocked to find that the charge would be about 50 per cent more than their appropriation. They appealed to Mr. McMillan to assist them in getting a discount, as the Pacific Electric Company owns the building and grounds, and leases to the tenants who established the restaurant.

Mr. McMillan has his country home just above Casa Verdugo in the foothills. He undertook the task of footing a change of prices on the redoubtable Senora's menu. The argument resulted in a falling out and when the discussion ended Mr. McMillan had served notice that the lease would be terminated.

Singularly enough, Senora Sowl is not so much concerned about the decrease as the neighbors. For did! Will any one who has ever tasted the chiles relencos, the albondigas and the ensalada de papas from a real Spanish kitchen ever consent to dine elsewhere?

Will Senora Huntington herself, who personally established this casa vieja because of a sentiment for the yesterday of California history, permit it to become a commercial institution?

Senora Sowl is making no preparations to move until she hears from her friend, Mr. Huntington.

DOCTOR STEPS IN.

In the meantime General Manager McMillan has been ordered by his doctors to leave the city for a complete rest. The worry and responsibility of management of the railroad's affairs have been telling upon his health.

Senora Sowl refuses to discuss the matter further than to admit that she has been evicted. "It is a matter of private business which does not concern the public," she said. "The neighbors have been trying to take an interest, but that is because they want to do too much kindness. Madonna will come my pronto and there will always be trifles. La Casa Verdugo is known around the world and will not be forgotten."

Col. Tom C. Thornton is at the head of a committee which yesterday waited on Mr. McMillan to become involved in the disposition that is to be made of Casa Verdugo.

PENNIES ON A CAR.

Also a Controversy, a Closed Optic, and a Warrant for a Conductor's Arrest.

A warrant on a charge of battery was issued yesterday against R. B. Fowler, a conductor on the West Coast street Los Angeles Railway line, at the instigation of C. W. Snodgrass, a local business man.

Snodgrass was on his way downtown to bury his wife last Friday, when his attention was attracted by a controversy between an old man and a young man. The old man was offering five coppers in payment for his fare, which was refused by the conductor.

"Why don't you take the money?" it's legal tender, all right," demanded Snodgrass, who has been made nervous by the death of his wife and the trouble to which he had incidentally been subjected.

"What are you butting in this thing for?" angrily demanded the conductor.

"Aw," retorted Snodgrass, "I'm not butting in, but I do hate to see some of you fresh people coming out here from the East to work for $5 a day and not being able to see five pennies."

"I'll fix you so you can't see $5," cried Fowler, "it is alleged, and there is further allegation to the effect that he smote Snodgrass a mighty swat over the eye, closing the man's optic in a little while."

STUDENTS ENTERTAINED.

Six hundred students and alumni of the Brownberger Commercial College were entertained Friday evening by the faculty of the college, at No. 363

Senora Piedad Sowl, who is about to be evicted from the historic hacienda of the Verdugo, and in whose behalf Mr. Huntington is to be petitioned.

MENACE OF WOMEN.

STALKING DEMON QUEERLY COWS.

RESISTANCE MELTS BEFORE BOYLE HEIGHTS TERROR.

Victims Who Apparently Could Escape Easily Enough Remain Still While He Leaves Them and Returns to Inflict Indignities—Men Immense Advantage of Being Unexpected.

The "Boyle Heights demon," in his various assaults upon women, has furnished an interesting study in terrorism.

In the account of the invasion of the Mongols under Genghis Khan, it is told how one Mongol trooper massacred the inhabitants of a whole town. In the course of the slaying he broke his saber and ordered the village women he was about to kill to wait on his knees with his head bowed. "I will get another sword," he said, "and return and cut off your head." The man waited and was beheaded.

Some of the incidents in the career of this Boyle Heights fiend are scarcely less incredible. He seems to have the effect upon his victims that a snake has on a bird.

In one of the cases reported to the police, the "assaulter" stopped a man and woman near a church.

He told the man to stand perfectly still in the middle of the side-walk. He then summoned the woman to follow him around the corner, she obeyed like some one in a trance.

The "assaulter" escorted her around the corner on a side street alongside a church. He did not immediately attack her. He stationed her on the sidewalk and told her to wait until he went back to talk to her husband.

She stayed there, a strange held to the spot. The "assaulter" then went back where he had left the husband. He found the man exactly where he had been left, like a stationed sentry.

The "assaulter" went leisurely through his pockets, talking to him all the while. After a little, he finished his search and went back to the woman, who had not attempted to run. He then assaulted her and coolly dismissed the pair.

Either the man or the woman could have escaped. In fact, even though they did not want to fight, both of them could easily have run away. He was walking around the corner two or three times from one to the other. The idea that he may be resisted never seems to enter the "demon's" head.

In one case he remained with one of the girls whom he had attacked for nearly an hour. She had sworn she would die before she would submit to him and the man seemed to be afraid. This indicates, apparently, that he is not determined or desperate.

In another case, as showing how he seems to paralyze the thinking capacity of his victims, he stopped a young man and a girl. Having taken the girl to a vacant lot, he ordered the young man to make himself scarce. Immediately across the street was a store with a telephone, and there were dozens of other phones within the block. Instead of using them, the young man ran all the way from Boyle Heights to the Police Station.

In all the cases wherein he has assaulted women, the man is understood to have displayed the utmost capableness.

Unlike Western hold-up men who know it is death to let the gun muzzle so much as waver, the "Boyle Heights demon" makes no attempt to keep the man "covered." He takes down the gun and even turns his back on the man he is holding up; sometimes he puts down the gun and walks around as he talks.

In only one case has he met with any real resistance.

In talking to the police the man whom he has held up has almost universally expressed chagrin and bitter sorrow at having given in so easily. They all say that, were they held up again, they would fight until they were killed.

The "demon" has the immense advantage of being unexpected. In most cases, the presence of the woman seems to have the effect of taking all the fight out of the man. It is possible that he made even more than a bluff to "start something" for fear of the woman being hit in the melee.

YOUTHFUL SUSPECTS.

Three Boys Are Held on Charge of Being Implicated in Burglary.

Albert Watson, aged 17; Lester Hoot, 18, and Robert Melver, 22, are in the City Jail, charged with burglary. The three boys were arrested by Patrolmen Lynch and Held of the University Police Station.

Watson was arrested Friday night, when the officers found him drunk. He was suspected of complicity in the burglary on September 5, of a grocery at the corner of Twelfth and Maple. Through him the officers obtained the names and descriptions of the other two lads, who were arrested yesterday.

A quantity of candy, cigars and tobacco, supposed to have been stolen, was found in the room of one of the boys at the corner of Eighteenth and Maple.

MRS. MINER AND A GLIMPSE OF THE BEAUTIFUL GARDEN SHE HAS HERSELF CONSTRUCTED.

WOMAN'S SOUL SHOWS IN THIS PATCH OF PARADISE.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK.

ONLY a woman seems able to bring flowers from her heart and set them blooming in her door yard. To find within herself a dream of paradise and forget-me-nots to find in the garden of her own soul, a garden of the sun and hazy dews and night—surely only a woman may do that.

I have sometimes thought the flowers of a woman's garden were but her smiles in bloom, while now and then I have found those star-eyed and wondrous things, half spirit and half name, and these I have known for the tears on her pillow at night, stolen by some moonbeam lower and carried to his night bird in her rose tree in a hedge where the shadowy rest.

A woman lets her heart breathe and speak when she walks in her garden alone. It is her holy of holies—her inner shrine—where vibrates a music softer than ever breaks upon the pulsing ear of night, softer than the zephyrs of a summer night gone mad with June-tide roses.

In her garden alone a woman looks out upon life with loyal, steadfast eyes and, though she looks through mist of tears and pain, I know that in her heart the violets are springing and that her eyes are fixed upon blue skies without a stain.

That is any woman's garden, and it is the garden of Mrs. Randolph H. Miner at her home on West Adams street. I know that this is so because at its gateway are the lines, lovely and fragrant as a flower:

A garden is a love's thing.
God not. Rose plot, frozen pool,
Fenced grove, the veriest school
Of peace, and yet the fool
Confends that God is not!

Not God? In gardens where the eve is cool
Nay, but I have a sign—
The very sure God walks in mine.

From what rich vagary of some ancient poet's pen these lines have come I do not know. I only know that Mrs. Miner's garden is radiant with the spirit they contain.

It takes imagination to make a garden, imagination richer than a poem and as light as a song. The consummate artist, expressed in the rich interior of a home entirely of her own design, flowers in a noble genius through the wonder of Mrs. Miner's garden. Only one hundred feet square, but a hundred feet square and yet out of her love for living things she has made the spot a dream of green and gold and light. She has produced one hundred square feet of intricate loveliness.

Of many noble and beautiful features of Mrs. Miner's garden those which impress me most are that she fashions her own design, does her own work, and keeps as near to the native flowers and shrubs as well may be. Two essentials of harmony she has emphasized. One of these was to keep an effective greenery everywhere, so that her garden is a miniature forest and one so well contrived that its size is magnified to three times its proportion. Another is that she has planted so many things to bloom in season that every inch of her garden is always rich in perfume and fulfiling. From the wonderful ferns that border the portico to the giant bamboo which grows six inches in a day, her garden is a maze of greenery. There are no flaming effects of brightness to shock the vision, but all things melt in harmony as if there was something fluidic and flowing in their beauty. It is like a mysterious alchemy where one value blends into another, just as flames are welded, or it is like William Winter's poem of a woman's voice: "soft, so sweet, that hearing it you hardly know where the sound and silence meet."

Of course, she has planted flowers of beauty and brilliance, but they are so arranged in their blending with green things that they never lose that soft haze which is the charm of any garden. In a space of thirty feet she has six hundred lilies, each blooming in its own season and always with exquisite harmony. Their color is always a perfect symphony. After the white, come the daffodils and then like a procession of fairies, or of dream children, come the wild azaleas, the flowering fruits, the Spanish and Japanese iris, the lotus, the royal tiger lilies, and last of all, with their solemn old fragrance, come the convolvulids, living roses.

When Mrs. Miner took her place at No. 40 West Adams street, four years ago the plot was level and bare. It now has the effect of green hills and soft and smiling valleys, forever happy in the sun. For one thing, and this is a miracle of peace at night, there is a little fountain trickling through rough stones, murmuring how it loves the twilight. This laughing stream, which is like a string of pearls in moonlight and like opals of fire in the sun, loses itself in a tiny lake from which rise the sacred lotus of the East and the great water lily of royal purple, while upon it rests the old and ever beautiful English water lily, smiling like a white star from its sky of crystal.

One might think that in a space a hundred feet square there would be little room for trees, but Mrs. Miner has found places for forest giants of every character. She has the box, the cork, the live oak, the chestnut, sequoia. A dozen species of cypresses, and a splendid eastern black walnut, which an obliging neighbor came over from Chester place to plant for his lovely neighbor, Richard, who was smoking a pipe.

attracts the visitor's attention is a wild thing from down by the sea called the coprosma. It has a leaf richer than any holly and grows in wild profusion without care. Indeed, every leaf looks as though it had been polished before the guest's arrival. This extravagant growing thing seems to have caught so that in splendid freedom it has thrown itself into a picturesque wildness of beauty. Truly, it is a wonder that more people have not been attracted by this marvelous wild thing. It might be trained into a hedge by far more beautiful and more aristocratic than any of those expensive shrubs which form the conventional borders of door yard which might be made artistic.

One of the joys of Mrs. Miner's garden is that she grows the plants for her beautiful home. She has what is probably the largest and most interesting collection of ferns in the city. Her conservatory is a bower of every delicate and wonderful thing belonging to the cool, inviting realms of flora. Her maiden-hair ferns overflow half a dozen shelves like gracious showers. They are like fountains in the sun. She is delighted with the new fern obtained from a cross with the old Boston and the common feather fern and harder, out-of-door ferns throng in rich profusion the space about something well-nigh tumultuous about the intertwining of these copious, rich plants. These are bordered with masterly, virile begonias of splendid beauty.

It is hard to realize that Mrs. Miner's grounds are no larger than they are, and her friends are taking the keenest delight in the fact that when the work of re-constructing the garage and driveway is completed, she will have another forty feet to add to her garden. When her house was built four years ago the cement work was not satisfactory. Lately it has been recognized as so deficient that every bit of the concrete work on the premises had to be removed. This does not alter the soft yet striking beauty and richness of the dwelling's interior. Still it is no end of an inconvenience, and Mr. and Mrs. Miner will have no peace until it is finished. The addition of forty feet to her garden is worth any amount of inconvenience to Mrs. Miner. Already she is busy with a hundred plans to make the most of this valuable space.

And it is good to find in the city's heart one of those wonder gardens which call to mind the lines of the world's one poet:

"That all for which the soul did pine,
A green isle in the sea, love a fountain,
And a shrine, all wreathed in fairy fruits and flowers, and all the flowers

JUST LIKE A PALACE.

Government Officials, Moving Into New Federal Building, Delighted With Magnificent Quarters.

The new Federal building, which, for months was as exclusive as the New York mansion of a steel king, but lately stripped of the fence which hedged it in, was laid bare to the admiring eyes of an expectant public, took on yesterday all the bustle of moving day.

High-priced government officials, clerks and stenographers, drawing modest stipends, court attachés and janitors relaxing from their majestic mien as servants of the great republic, tugged and hauled, pushed, grunted and perspired with the unaccustomed muscular exertion of storing tons of documents.

The palatial structure and its superb fitting actually melted for time the icy reserve of the new tenants. But that was while they were in their shirt-sleeves, assisting in moving in the documents and other things. When this had been accomplished, they put on that cold exterior by which government officials are recognized and assumed an air of having always been accustomed to so much grandeur.

The United States District and Circuit courts were the first branch of the government service transplanted to the new structure. With the courts moved the United States marshal, the United States attorney for the Southern District, today the Land Office and the Internal Revenue offices will follow suit, taking their places on the fifth floor.

On account of the number of the documents, great care had to be exercised in transporting them lest some should be misplaced. Papers which slipped into the wrong files twelve years ago when the offices were moved, have just been found.

The new building is more like a palace than a public building. It truly has marble halls. The offices could not be improved upon. They are both roomy and dignified. Marshal Youngworth drew a regular ballroom for his office. It was so fine that he attempted to get the United States attorney to take it.

Nearly all of the furniture has been newly purchased. Some of the files and cases had been made to order for the old quarters and were kept on account of being handy.

The building will be like a sanatorium for cleanliness. All of the air will be filtered through water before it is pumped up to the occupants. Each room will be emptied every three minutes. The drinking water will also be thoroughly filtered.

The entire building will be occupied before the end of the week, and all of the offices will be permanently arranged.

TRAFFIC IMPROVEMENTS

district called at the headquarters of the Pacific Electric, seeking information regarding the cost of the proposed condemnation proceedings, and those under way. The committee was headed by Frank L. Martin, who stated that the assessment district there is comparatively small.

When the committee learned that altogether the cost will approximate $250,000, according to the figures of the railway, to condemn its land in that section, members of the committee "took notice." It is probable that they will oppose further condemnation suits unless the assessment district is greatly enlarged, for it is the home owners as well as the tract sellers who must pay the bill.

The special committee appointed by the five associations to conduct the fight in the southwest state that: "Mr. Dunn seems to think that the people in the southwest are antagonistic to railway improvements. Such is not the case. The people realize that a car barn must be erected in that section, and they want the barn as badly as the railway officials. The car service on the Grand-avenue line is had enough now. Without a barn in the southwest, service cannot be improved, economically."

Agricultural Park was nothing but a place to hold horse races at the time this strip was purchased, and half conditions not changed, no objection would have been made to the erection of a barn at that point. As a city grows, slaughter-houses, brick yards, lumber yards, and even cow pens, which have been established for years, are compelled to move. It is no fault of the citizens that the railway company has made a mistake in its choice of location of the car barn. The Los Angeles Investment Company, and the Inglewood Land Company next year will place on the market 300 acres in the southwest. St. Vincent's College and other Catholic schools will be erected on the west of the city limits. Car lines will have to be extended to these districts. One car barn is already located out at Fifty-sixth street in the southeast section of the city. The Fifty-fourth-street site in the southwest is the natural location for that section.

"If Mr. Dunn will seek to cooperate with the citizens whose company is serving, he will find that they are reasonable and will be glad to assist him in making Los Angeles not only the 'city beautiful,' but also enable his company to operate with a profit."

LAND OF GOSHEN, NOW A FINE STOCK COUNTRY.
BRICKS AND ORANGES.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

GOSHEN, Sept. 2.—Come often so low that one can look over them as he rides by on a camel. There are no gardens or lawns about them. They face the street and are huddled together without regard to beauty or comfort.

The roofs form the woodyard of the people below. The only fuel used is cornstalks, straw, or the bushes from which the cotton has been picked. This stuff is tied up in bundles and laid away on the roofs till used.

There are but few trees to be seen. Now and then an acacia grows along the roadway, and here and there over the country are clumps of date palms. There are occasional fruit gardens, and one frequently passes an orchard loaded with oranges.

The roads are usually high above the probably made by them, and assert that the sun-dried bricks of today are practically the same as those which the children of Israel molded under the lash of their taskmasters.

This is the case in the ruins of the Bubastis, or the city of the worship of the cat. This town was situated within a stone's throw of the Zazarak of today, and its buildings of mud brick have crumbled almost to dust, but here and there the walls are plainly visible.

Bubastis dates back to the time when the pyramids were young. It is supposed to have been built by the Israelites, and was a great city until it was captured by the Persians about 525 B. C. Bubastis was noted for its temples devoted to the cat-headed goddess. This lady had the form of a lioness with the head of a cat, and she held in one hand a lotus leaf as a scepter. Herodotus speaks of her and this city, saying that the temples were gorgeous and that the stone road leading to them was 1800 feet long. He says that the people came in crowds here to worship, and at the annual festivals something like 700,000 strangers the worshippers were women who often danced and acted otherwise "in an unseemly rest of the country. They run along the canals, and consist of the dirt built up to hold back the waters. The side roads are chiefly camel paths or foot paths, and one sees everywhere the traffic moving along through the fields. Even on the chief roads there are very few wagons. The most of the freight is carried on donkeys and camels, and they form the chief riding animals as well. Long-legged Egyptians, in turbans and gowns, sit on the rumps of little donkeys, their feet almost dragging; fierce-looking Bedouins, their head-dresses tied on with ropes, bob up and down as they ride on their camels, their heads apparently bowing at every step of the beast.

There are camels loaded with alfalfa, the grass so covering them that they look like miniature haystacks walking along. There are donkeys with boxes and bags and mules and bullocks carrying freight of one kind or another. Out in the fields one now and then sees a buffalo with a half-naked boy sitting on it, and at nightfall the paths are lined with men coming from the fields, riding these ungainly beasts, and balancing their one-legged play in front of them as they move slowly on.

THE CITY OF THE CAT.

It was here in Goshen that the Israelites worked after they were enslaved by the Egyptians. They went from here also to build cities and towns in various parts of the Nile Valley. The archaeologists who are now excavating in Egypt tell me that they frequently find bricks which were manner," leading us to believe that they were by no means so good as they should be.

EGYPTIAN-BRICKMAKERS OF 1910.

Riding out to Bubastis, I found there a brickyard in full swing. It was situated right on the edge of the ruins and the Fellahs of today were molding the clay used by the Israelites of the past into building material for 1910. As I looked at their mind went back to the days of the Pharaohs when Moses was still living and saw his people laboring under the lash. These men and women are working under taskmasters or overseers. Their half-clad persons were burnt black by the tropical sun overhead and they looked not unlike slaves. Here they were grinding the mud, there they were molding it into bricks and further over they were piling up the bricks which had been dried in the sun. The carrying of the bricks was largely done by young girls, who labored under a burly negro with a stick in his hand. At his direction the girls took the bricks on their heads and carried them off on the road. I got a photograph of this scene by bribing the negro; and I doubt not my picture was a fair type of what which went on in those long ago days when Pharaoh drove the Israelites to similar work without straw.

NEW LIBRARIAN LIBERAL IN POLICIES; WOULD SPECIALIZE.

Head of Public Literary Institution of Los Angeles Shows Capacity Along Many Lines—Can Deliver Lectures With Success Before Business Men, Balance the Oolong at a Bun—Scramble and Manipulate Statistics.

BY WILLARD HUNTINGTON WRIGHT.

WHAT about Purd B. Wright, the new city librarian? What is he doing here?

In an indirect way he influences the community more than any other man. On this gentleman's taste, judgment, intelligence and moral scruples, depend the character of your reading and the facility with which your books may be obtained.

Wright was selected mysteriously by some one to fill the chair of librarian recently left vacant by Charles F. Lummis. And it is with this chair and its new occupant that we are concerned this morning.

A librarian's job is no light and sportive task. It requires a capacity such as few men possess. It is a serious occupation, fraught with staggering difficulties. To fill a librarian's chair adequately means that a man did not limit himself to the depressing art of farming. After the horses and cows had been fed and the churning done (they did it by hand in those days) young Wright hitched up and drove to town, where he attended the Pleasant Ridge College school.

This, however, did not afford him opportunities in keeping with his ambitions. Returning to Cameron he devoted for awhile to the printing business, learned the trade, and became a reporter on the Cameron Daily Vindicator, at the same time acting as correspondent for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Chicago Times-Louisville Courier-Journal and the New York Tribune.

Cameron's horizon, however, was too limited. After some haphazard and executive work in different cities, Wright made for St. Joseph, where he landed the job of city editor on the St. Joseph Herald. There (from 1887 to 1895) he served as City Clerk, in which capacity he started the campaign for a public library. The year 1896 saw the successful culmination of this campaign. The year 1903 found him the editor and publisher of the Journal of Commerce, the leading commercial newspaper of the Missouri Valley. He was also the secretary of the Commercial Club, a business organization which corresponds to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

FAR FROM SEDENTARY.

But Wright was not a man to sit still. For several years he had been slowly dreaming a dream. Many were the times he paused in the midst of blue-penciling a copy of the "Penny Plan" for the St. Joseph Library. And on October 1, 1896, he became the head of the institution he had labored to found six years before. Librarian of St. Joseph he remained until his

He has broad sympathies, and is lenient. By attributing to him these characteristics, I have no intention of being complimentary. For to be sympathetic and lenient is to be sentimental. And Wright is confessedly sentimental. He glows in it. Also, he has a genuine intelligence. By this I do not mean bookish intelligence, learning or literary culture. In fact, he has enough intelligence to avoid this state of mental atrophy.

DIPLOMATIC? VERY.

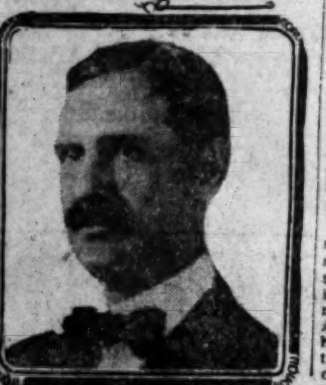

As for prejudices and tastes, he probably has them in abundance, but knows his business well enough to keep them to himself. For over an hour I tried to discover what his religion was, and he is to be congratulated on the fact that I am still utterly in the dark as to his ethical beliefs. Philological evasion such as Wright's is nothing short of genius. But I am confident that he is a man of high principles, impeccable morals and conservative habits. Also, I sounded Wright as to his tastes in literature, but all I could get out of him was that he did not care specially for Laura Jean Robbery and Bertha Clay. His tastes, he told me, should be governed by what the people wanted. When I came to see him he was telling a story to two old ladies. The story contained the word "hell," but he used it with such humorous finesse that the old ladies left him chuckling with delight. It is only a diplomat who can say "hell" to old ladies.

From all I could gather, Wright has a fairly universal temperament—or I might say, a flexible temperament. He is equally anxious to have the latest Bobbe-Merrill fiction on the shelves for the fudge-stuffed young ladies as to liberate the latest literature on bridge construction for the bespectacled mathematician. He showed me a list of books on the order list, and spoke with equal reverence of Winston Churchill and Schopenhauer. I brought up the subject of Nietzsche and suddenly he changed it to Mme. Blavatsky, and I have no idea toward which one he has the strongest philosophical leanings.

And all this is as it should be. Each gang of philosophical lobsters should have a crack at the literature of his cult, and it is not Wright's place to alter God's crustacea.

LIBERAL IDEAS.

A practical, liberal mind is one of Wright's possessions. The Middle West and rural New England device of maintaining closed shelves where certain questionable books are kept for the private circulation of the library is not Wright's style. He does not appeal strongly to the Librarian.

Purd B. Wright, Los Angeles' New Librarian, and One of His Works, the Stockyard Library Branch in St. Joseph, Mo., on the grounds of which he planted with his own hands every tree, shrub and flower.

must be built with broad sympathies, leniency, genuine intelligence, and a comprehensive understanding. One's prejudices must be shored up, bound and gagged. One's personal tastes must be put on a continuous diet of febrifuge.

A librarian must be temperamentally polyandrous and cut from an unbiased piece of material. He must be the shop girl's idol, the old lady's darling, the scientist's ideal and the friend of the professional pundit. He must have temperamental affinities for all novelists from Hall Caine to Tourgenieff. He must tolerate all poetry from the passionate strophes of Ella Wheeler Wilcox to the metaphysical rumbustious of Browning. He must respect all scientists from Cagliostro and Lombroso to Ernest Haeckel and Pasteur. He must admire historians from Marco Polo and Sir John Mandeville to Fiske and Ferrero.

Furthermore, he must countenance equally spook-chasing, Christian Science, voodooism, psychopathy, woman suffrage, New Thought, hell fire, single tax and physical culture. Literature dealing with esoteric fads, quasi-sciences, theosophies, Emanuel movements and Yogi doctrines, he must keep in partially on the shelves for the delectation of their various proselytes.

HUMAN CHAMELEON.

And this is not all. An ideal librarian must be able to mingle with all the varied types of the genus homo. He must please the old ladies who would like to run the library. He must surface to the taste of the younglings of cranks. He must insulate himself into the good graces of the juveniles. He must be enteric with the theosophists and pharmacologists with the M.D.'s. He must know how to balance saucers at pale tea, and how to nibble macaroons and analyze the weather at the same time. He should know the wine when it is red and the highball when it is high. He must be able to officiate at female bun scrambles, lecture before women's clubs, write articles on education, converse sympathetically on all theories of statistics, so that he can prove conclusively any contention or its reverse by a few figures. Also he should have mastered the science of platitudinizing.

And last, a librarian must be non-reformative. He must permit a differentiation in human belief and purpose. He must allow the reader to work out his own destiny. A citizen pays his money for the books he wishes to read, and it is outside the jurisdiction of the librarian and the library board to tell him what he ought to read. Moral superintendents do not make for progress.

In fine: A librarian must please everybody and at the same time handle intelligently one of the greatest educational institutions in the world. Believe me, this is no small matter. And no small man could keep the axes greased sufficiently to avoid hot boxes. Now, the list of requirements which I have enumerated may seem irrelevant—a sort of inutile preamble to the question with which I opened. It may seem that I am avoiding the subject of Purd B. Wright. But such is not the case. Everything I have said has a direct bearing on the subject, and by applying the requirements to Wright we may be able to ascertain the length and breadth of his mind.

Let us first glance quickly at a few ante-discussion facts: Wright is a native of the Show-me State, born at Liberty, Little Western, which is the famous Platte purchase. When Purd was 4 his father died, and two years later his mother removed to Cameron. It was here that Wright grew up. After graduating from the Cameron High School he returned to his uncle's farm just outside of Weston, Banville, duties occupied him for some years, but he removal to Los Angeles, several months ago.

It will be interesting as an insight into Wright's energy and general managerial ability, to see just what he has accomplished in his fourteen years of superintendence in St. Joseph. When he assumed the position, the library had an income of about $5000 a year, contained 18,000 books and was housed in rented quarters. What were the conditions when Wright set steam for Los Angeles? A handsome central library building, two fine branches and a third in embryo. The central building was built by the people, branch buildings being provided by Carnegie. The sites were furnished in two instances by private individuals, and in the third by an addition to a park.

PRACTICAL BUILDER.

A word concerning these branches: The first was put in the packing-house district, and was the first library in the country specializing on the packing and allied industries. Books covering every line of the meat business were installed—raising and feeding stock, diseases of animals, packing-house buildings, cutting and curing, refrigeration and like lines. The second branch was located in the street-railway and railroad shop section, and its books specialized on these lines.

Thus we find in Wright a man who sees specializing only as a means to meet the wants of the clientele sought to be served—a basis on which all libraries and branches should be constituted. The third branch which Wright has planned will be of a general character, there being no distinct line to warrant specializing as yet.

Wright is not a chair man. He is not a mollycoddle, willing to let other people carry out work which he has planned. An idea with him embodies the actual effect. When he planned the grounds of the packing-house library (which comprised 18,000 square feet) he fitted his action to the idea. He attired himself in overalls and clod-hoppers, and for weeks served in the capacity of gardener, digging all the holes for the trees and shrubbery, shoveling the manure, and packing the sprouts.

The only thing Wright said to me, with not a little regret in his tone, "which kept me from setting out the trees and flowers for the second branch was that the work was already done."

OTHER POSTS.

Wright was president of the Missouri Library Commission for three years, appointed by Gov. Polk on its creation. This commission was in charge of the traveling libraries and library organizations of the State. Also, he was in the capacity of district director of the State Historical Society. He was treasurer of the American Library Association, resigning January 1 last. At present he is a member of the executive board, being elected at the organization meeting at Mackinac, with Dr. Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress. He is also a member of the Library Institute.

The closed shelves will only be closed to those who do not wish to read. A book in the library will be easily accessible to all comers. Would you care to peruse the pages of "Three Weeks," or slip into the adventures of "The Lady With the Camelias"? If so, the new librarian will do a very radical and revolutionary thing: he will allow you to read the book for which you have paid your own money. This is a radical and revolutionary thing, with a desire to serve the community and not to reform it, his standards, so far as I could see, are not those which prevail in the majority of libraries. It is the intellect and his fairness and respect for the beliefs of every individual, even those who are in the wrong, which go to make an ideal librarian.

HIS PERSONALITY.

However, this is not all that is required. The man's personality counts. Let us consider it casually. In my acquaintance with Wright, I have found him to be a genial companion with pleasing manners. Books cover conversation which does not intrude itself. He is not averse to a glass of beer when the sun is high and hot, nor will he spurn a highball when the sun is low and cold. On the other hand (though I have not been present during the delivery of a lecture) I have it from competent authority that Wright can hold a cup of tea upright, eat cookies, pay compliments to Los Angeles and bring chairs for standing ladies—all at the same time without spilling a drop of the oolong. As yet he has not officiated at any water-tosses or lectured to the women's clubs, but I have no doubt that he could carry off either programme with honors. He is, however, given one or two lectures to the business men of the city with no small degree of success.

As to that very important accomplishment of manipulating statistics, I am thoroughly confident that Wright is an adept. Of course it would be asking too much that he possess the statistical power of his predecessor; for the way Lummis could make colorable assertions by an array of figures, was nothing short of miraculous. Wright, however, runs him a close second. In a very brief time he surveyed the statistics that out of 16,000 people only twenty read popular novels; and (if I am not mistaken) he demonstrated the fact that more people were interested in the composition of asphalt than in history. His arguments were unanswerable.

ADVOY, YE PLATITUDES!

I said that a competent librarian should be learned in the gentle art of platitudinizing. With all respect and complimentary intentions, I wish to assure you that the new librarian is not to be disquieted on this ground. To put forth the platitudes and beforelong to see that it will masquerade as an original thought, is an intricate and difficult operation. But it has its compensation. It is the only way one may obtain a favorable reputation of being a great thinker. From Wright's prospectus I quote the following gem: "Marking time too long is another name for non-progression. It is a great mistake to think that a man can stand still. A statement with which the most skeptical could not cavil. But it answers the purpose, and with sufficient verbal interlards will pass in almost any community as an idea. At this sort of thing Wright shows great expertise and experience. It is the kind of mental buncombe that makes for popularity.

BROAD IDEALS.

As to Wright's ideals: He believes that a public library should be just what the people will it to be. The ideal library, he thinks, is that which most nearly meets the needs of its public, and, by meeting them, increases them. An ideal library in any city means that the scholar, the teacher, the philosopher, the student, the artist, the scientist, the engineer, the architect, the business man, the clerk, the shop girl, the mechanic—all should find every month help supplied upon the asking. In properly lighted, comfortably equipped study rooms, to the highest standard and to the utmost, that the worker in every line be helped to increase efficiency. Now, if Wright is big enough to carry out the standards he has set himself, there can be no complaint from any quarter. Wright's chief source of regret in regard to the present conditions here is the fact that Los Angeles does not control a single foot of library real estate other than the two branch libraries acquired by the extension of the city limits to San Pedro and Hollywood.

BOY BADLY BITTEN.

Lester Thorne, a 17-year-old schoolboy living at Arcadia, has lost confidence in canine pets. Lester tried to play with his dog yesterday afternoon and was bitten through the hand, sustaining two so severe punctures that he had to go to the Receiving Hospital to have them cauterized and dressed.

ALREADY HE HAS ENDEAVORED TO POPULARIZE THE LIBRARY.

His first recommendation was to reduce age limit for children, the only limitation now being ability to write name and address intelligently. Heretofore children under 10 years of age were not permitted to have cards. Without in any way curtailing work heretofore done, increased effort will be made to reach the masses. Wright is a believer in branches, as making the library and its contents readily accessible. He believes in a liberal policy with patrons, and in having as few restrictions as possible compatible with businesslike supervision of property. Only such changes will be made in management of the library as experience and local conditions warrant.

FIGHT SCALDS CHILD.

Women in Ugly Row Overturn Pot of Heated Water and Little One Narrowly Misses Death. Anna Dublin, a girl of only twelve months, came frightfully near to being scalded to death yesterday afternoon in the course of a fight between a lot of Russian women in the kitchen of a tenement house at the corner of Jackson and Anselmi streets. The child was playing behind the stove when the fighting women fell against it, overturning a pot of scalding water which flooded the floor where the little Anna sat.

The child's screams of agony as she writhed in the pool of hot water only

BY THE APOSTLE'S SIDE.

Remains of First Wife of Francis Murphy, Who Died Forty Years Ago, Brought from Maine.

In the presence of the children and grandchildren of the late Francis Murphy, the remains of his first wife, who died in Maine more than forty years ago, was interred by the side of her husband in Rosedale Cemetery on Thursday morning last. The remains had been brought here from Maine in a small casket, and the ceremonies were very simple, consisting of a brief address and prayer by Dr. Charles Edward Locke, of the First Methodist Church. Among other things, Dr. Locke said: "What Susanna Wesley was to her husband, the founder of Methodism; what Catherine Booth was to her husband, the founder of the Salvation Army, so was Elisabeth Murphy to her husband, Francis Murphy, America's greatest apostle of temperance."

"Taking the Count."

You remember, do you not, your dear old grandfather's story of repeated, about his grandfather, whose grandfather sent him out one day to count the pigs? Now the boy returned presently with the statement that he had counted them, all but one, which wouldn't stand still long enough to be counted? He?

Oh, yes, but you do remember it, very accurately, because I heard you tell it the other day about your own boy, and you told it very well, merely substituting chickens for pigs. Also, I read it in a magazine about a month ago, the hero being a little son of Congressman Halfheart, who is up for reelection, and again in a weekly paper wherein Senator Laydout and his little grandson are the characters, and once again I saw it in a fashion magazine where the story is told about himself by an idiot in the witless set, who never had but one idea in his life and that was a pre-natal suggestion that died in birth. You know how these stories go.

But it is a good story, all the same, one that carries a point with its humor. It is a very difficult thing to get a true count of any number of persons exceeding twelve, because there is always at least one foolish person who won't stand still long enough to be counted. The result is he is either counted a score of times, as in the case of estimating the number of voters in our own torch-light procession, or not at all, and in addition deducted from the sum total every time he is observed, as is done when we are making a true and careful count of the number of persons in possession of our friend, the enemy.

"Taking the count," is a phrase used concerning the gentleman who is down and out. Nothing is so fatal to the size of an audience, for example, as the sale of the tickets at the door. A refined and intelligent audience of 500 persons, representing the elite, culture and embonpoint of our city, is not infrequently massacred by the ruthless accounting of the ticket office, until not more than 500 souls remain. Even experts find it a matter of difficulty in estimating a multitude. And to the amateur guesser the difficulty becomes an impossibility. For a concrete example, Temple Auditorium has a seating capacity of 3000 people. The first time Melville Trotter spoke therein, a religious paper, giving an account of the meeting, stated 5000 people in the great room without a struggle. It was glorious for the speaker, but mighty hard on the bulging auditorium, which was permanently injured beyond its capacity. It never got over it. At any rate, half a dozen times since then, I have read accounts of meetings there—some of them mine own—attended by 5000 people.

Maybe cities have the same sort of trouble. It is difficult to evolve an absolutely correct system of taking a census.

Chemical Blondes and Painted Brunettes.

We have long since learned to tolerate and even accept without raising a question of genuineness the kind of blonde hair that goes with a misfit complexion. We have accepted at least legal, the blush that won't come off until it is rubbed off. We do not quarrel with the transparent pearl of the marble brow that transfers itself to the shoulder of the coat. All these things are of lovely woman, true womanly, or at least good imitation womanly. They go. And then they come again. We accept them.

But we demand sincerity in our animals and fowls. We are justly suspicious of a "hoax" which the dealer has improved with pigments. We have mistrusted the white elephant since the day of the Barnum-Forepaugh show over that rare, and now extinct, animal. We do not accept as an original creation the dyer's poodle dog of red, white and blue. And now, lovely woman, whose truth is the love star of man, when he isn't loaded with some other fallacy, has invaded the hen coop with fraudulent intent to deceive, and has taught the realm of "chantecler" the arts that lure the unobservant and capture the knowledge who don't care.

A lady of Red Bank, N. J., recently exhibited a 1900 rooster at a poultry show. A perfect salmon pink. He was admired, praised, blue ribboned, and suspected. He was just a little too beautiful. He was given a bath, "farm" and with soap. As is usual in these cases of witnesses in matters of fraud, it was an immunity bath. And the fowl thing did what the principal witness in fraud cases always does. He came out of the bath white as a sheet, and he himself, but he seemed to be a different bird. The white rooster, the Jeroboam who taught him to sin the sin of deception. Also for the woman who painted the white rooster pinker than he was feathered. Also for the victim of her chicanery.

This is the natural sequence of the "chantecler" range. Once the hens go on the stage, and it is the most natural thing in the world for them to imitate and adopt the changing and changeable complexions of the footlights to suit the occasion. If the salmon-pink rooster of Red Bank can prove that he was "made up" for the title role in the great play, he may go free, and the voice of nature must turn into an apology to the good woman who was his "make up," so to speak. The transformation was a dramatic license. The white rooster in his time may play many parts. And he must have a new make-up for each part. Only, he should be properly billed. The vaudeville performer who gives imitations of Henry Irving, Beaumont Newhall, and other English actors, is rightfully popular. But he would be billed if he claimed to be the original Henry Irving.

The cruel thing in this whole business is that the woman used her arts upon the rooster, teaching him how to improve his value by the change of plumage. A rooster. Had he been a hen, which is impossible, it would not have been so bad. But to teach a he-rooster such vanity!

Didn't the chicken woman know that a dyed mustache is a thing abhorrent to all men save the rooster who wears it? Do not men honor the bald and glittering head, and laugh at the toupee? Are not the men who grow old reluctantly, hunting beauty doctors for the eradication of moles, wrinkles, bristles, and other marks of age, laughing stocks among women?

To teach an innocent rooster the arts of the "make-up" and the "toupee" is a thing away with this woman. Shut her up in the most brilliantly lighted dungeon beneath the castle, the most beautifully furnished with powders, perfumes, grease paints, flesh tints, and all the beauty ecstasies of the toilet, with not a solitary mirror in the splendid torture chamber. Strike! Let her howl herself to voicelessness, which will add to the torment. Think who she has done.

Baul at It Again.

Mr. James A. Patton, a well-known expert on the temptations of a large city, after the lamps are lit, is delivering lectures to young men, especially university students, warning them against the pitfalls of the city, with or without the "falsie." The evangelist of the corner "cautions" the boys to stay out of Chicago. When Baul mixes with the prophets, which he is quite fond of doing, he is very apt to bring to the prophetic syndicate a vast fund of practical knowledge of what has happened, which justifies his warnings as to what is

Thousands of men and women here and about Los Angeles will be surprised at the prompt relief after taking a little Diapiesin—Get some now and have your Stomach trouble over with forever.

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of indigestion or dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach, if you will take a little Diapiesin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Distress, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Bloating, Heartburn, Water Brash, Pain in Stomach and Intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapiesin really does all work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50c case of Pape's Diapiesin from your druggist and start taking now, and in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy Stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

Should you at this moment be suffering from indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can get relief within five minutes.

any CANCER or TUMOR I treat before it poisons deep or attaches to bone, without knife or pain. Not a dollar need be paid until cured.

Mrs. S. L. Jones, Station No. 1, Los Angeles, Cal.

I was cured of a very large cancer of her whole breast, at her home, 17 years ago. Write her, then go and see her or telephone her; Main 847. One of the most wonderful cures in history. Our book is full of other just such cures.

We give a written legal guarantee.

Any small tumor, lump or sore on the lip, face or body six months is nearly always cancer. We have the best 120-page book on cancers and tumors, cured without knife or pain, ever printed, which we send free. We use no X-ray or other swindle. A vegetable plaster makes the cure. My latest discovery is the most wonderful of all. The book is full of testimonials of people you can see and talk with. 5000 cures sworn to—Judges, lawyers, doctors, ministers and millionaires. We have cured hundreds after others failed, but we have honestly refused hundreds who had waited too long to be saved. Cancers never pain until the last stage, but they poison deeper every day. We cure large cancers in ten days—we kill them in three days and they drop out in seven days without a drop of blood or pain, and hundreds of people take their home in alcohol. The place heals very quickly at home. You could not keep it from healing.

mighty liable to happen. James's most strenuous advice to boys is to say "No." That is good in dealing with men like James. It is also a good thing to know how to holler "Nough!" AT AUDITORIUM

POLICY OF THE HOUSE OUTLINED BY MANAGER.

Great Single Attractions, Many Concerts, Some Lectures, Distinguished Foreign Stars, and Line of Shubert "Dollar Shows" Will Occupy Fifth Street Theater.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

The Auditorium is very much "on the map."

It will be "the dollar house," and as well the home of attractions so big that an ordinary theater wouldn't hold them.

The regular theatrical bookings in Manager Lehman's hands include the Pollard Opera company, "A Stubborn Cinderella," "Superba," "Our New Minister," "Morning, Noon and Night," "A Broken Idol," "The Call of the Wild,"
the Coburn "Players of London,"
"Electra," Billy Clifford in a new comedy, "Mrs. Wiggs," "The Newlyweds,"
"The Time, the Place and the Girl,"
"The Isle of Spice," Eddie Foy in "Up and Down Broadway," and a large company in "Rosaland."

The spectacles include the New Theater company in "The Blue Bird," Les Fields' production of "The Girl Behind the Counter," three spectacles from the New York Hippodrome and four other attractions requiring elaborate scene space from the New Theater.

In a class by itself is the week's visit, the last of November, of Pavlova, Mordkina, the Russian ballet and their huge orchestra. These dancers, unquestionably the greatest in the world, offer a terpsichorean entertainment which is incomparable.

The Beval opera company, now in San Francisco, will give three weeks of operatic repertoire. The Beale Abbot company, in Mascagni's "Ysobel," —based on the legend of Lady Godiva—with Mascagni directing the orchestra, will be heard.

"My policy for this year," says
Mr. Lehman, "is theatrical entertainment at a price made possible only by the size of the house; music of educational and entertaining sort—popular-priced whenever it can be made so —and great single attractions, of the Pavlova-Mordkina type—which are not comparable to anything else, simply because nothing else of the sort exists."

Many lectures, concerts and other features of a city's winter life now occupy Auditorium time.

Cora Foy, president of the Woman's Orchestra, a symphony director and promoter, educational expert, literary authority, patron of the arts and queen of the highbrows, is in danger of impeachment.

Two of her worthy associates overheard her in this conversation, via the telephone: "I want to see the pictures and I'm going to see them. Yes, I really, I know—what? Yes, of course I don't want the proper thing for me to go to Arcadia, but I am determined to get a look at those films before they go to New York, principally because I wish to settle something in my own mind. It wasn't the big smoke's turning in the fifth, which I don't him down. No, sir! Not on your existence! It was that jaw smash in the fifth. That got him going—they say it knocked his block back. No direction. His swings were wild. The kings poked him whenever he—here now, you can't talk to me! I know! Well, the pictures'll show that.
Fix it up, will you? There's a good kid!"

Just then the eavesdroppers faintly heard the felony complaint was served on her. Miss Foy coolly admitted her atrocious crime.

"Sure!" she said. "I'm American. I have sporting blood in my veins—I think I got it from an orchestra.
And I like a good fight when the fellows are evenly matched. If this be treason—well, good-night!"

The Theatrical Treasures' Association, which have always loved each other as do the regiments and the ingenious, must be getting together. Secretary Warwick Horne of one society has issued invitations to the members of the other to meet and drink with smoker next Tuesday evening. Which is going to swallow which—the lady or the tiger?

Last Sunday morning, Marjorie Rambau's first real "day off" since her stay in Los Angeles, a party of Jonathans Club fellows decided to her an 11 o'clock call. So they motored out.

They found the place apparently deserted, save for Marjorie's car, which was being repaired underneath by a young man partially invisible—only a pair of well-turned limbs in Striped hold overs, protruding from the machine's lower story.

The fellow was somewhat surly, and refused to come out or stop his work, merely growling in a somewhat tremulous tenor voice that "the whole d—n family had gone for the day. He was planned, the Jonathans turned to their machine and chugged down the road.

As the first turn hid them, Marjorie, hugely frightened, with a look of terror, got to her feet and ran like a greyhound to the house—and skirted.

"I had hoped to keep this," wrote an aspiring playwright to John H. Blackwood, enclosing his fifteen-pound effusion, "but the scarcity of plays at the present time convinces me that I should be willing to allow its presentation."

"Plays are scarce," wrote J. H. B. in answer, "so scarce that the Shuberts have only 250 manuscripts in their files. Frohman merely 300. David Belasco several hundred and the Syndicate a bare roomful. I wish I might produce your sublime play, but I respect your wish that it be revealed to a dazzled public only when other plays are gone. Here it is. Keep it till that time. Then beat it up."

The annual benefit of the Theatrical Mechanic Association—a kindly fraternity, not a union—like musical fraternities, several years of observation have convinced me that for unostentatious, practical charity this organization has theatrical good-fellows has no superior. And their shows are a $2 meal for a dime—comparatively he speaking.
The T. M. A. benefit is an absolutely worthy of patronage. The promoters offer the goods both ways—when they are getting the money, and when they dispose of it.

Angeliotes—and people who from experience wish they were Angeliotes—are certainly traveling this year. In Mr. Bohm's mail during the past week there were souvenir cards from Johanna Kristoffy, at Naples; Harley Hamilton, in Berlin; Johanna Gadeki, in Munich; Bruce Gordon Kingley, in Nuremberg; Frieda Lanzenfeld, in Vienna; John Kahn, in Oberammergau; Florentio Constantino, in Rio de

First-magnitude Musical Stars who are to appear in concert in Los Angeles this year. This group is more interesting than any ever announced here by reason of the fact that almost all of them are strangers to the Southwest. In the group are Jeanne Gertrude-Reiche, Frenchwoman, who is undoubtedly the most superb-voiced contralto alive; Alessandro Bonci, most celebrated of living lyric tenors; Berenice De Pasquale, famous young American soprano who made a great success in New York last season; the world-renowned composer and interpreter, Liza Lehmann; Antonio Scotti, distinguished baritone of the Metropolitan Opera-house; Jaroslav Kocan, the Bohe-mian violinist, and Johanna Gadeki and Josef Hoffman, who need no introduction to local audiences.

THE WEEK.
"GIRLS" AT THE BELASCO.
CLYDE FITCH COMEDY, FIRST TIME IN STOCK.

"Trilby" in Extensive Revival, at the Burbank, With Marjorie Rambeau—Pantages New Theater Opens.
Orpheum and Los Angeles Vaudeville.

Lewis S. Stone and his associates of the Belasco Theater will this week offer Clyde Fitch's "Girls." This will be the first production of the play by any stock company, and the presentation is made by special arrangement with the Messrs. Shubert.

"Girls" is a happily-conceived and expertly-told story of a trio of young girls who form a we-will-never-marryclub. These menhatters have their habitat in an apartment-house and not even the janitor is permitted to invade the spot. However, one night a young man, in an endeavor to extricate himself from a peculiarly trying and exciting situation, rushes into the room occupied by the girls and from that point on the young women commence to look upon man as a different sort of animal, until in the last act the man-bater-in-chief is made to confess that she really loves the young man who has made his appearance in the early part of the play under such unusual circumstances. The entire play is a sort of a three-act "Taming of the Shrew" production, although neither of the girls is quite a Katherine.

Lewis S. Stone will be seen as Edgar Holt, the hero of the play, and the part will afford the head of the Belasco company some fine chances for the very sort of stage work his admirers like to see him do. The three girls will be played by Eve Kelly,

Helene Sullivan and Emma Lowry, while Adele Farrington will be very much at home in the part of Lucille Purcell, an elocutionist who does not entertain the same dialke for mankind that do the trio of heroines; Frank Camp, Richard Vivian, Ida Lewis,
James K. Applebee, Charles Giblyn, Herbert Rawlinson, Richard Harbee and the other popular members of the Belasco company will be concerned in the performance of "Girls."

Following the Fitchian comedy, the Belasco company will offer George M.
Cohan's musical play, "Fifty Miles from Boston." The Tuesday night performance has been secured by the local mail carriers as the fifth of the series of benefits for their Los Angeles convention fund. The entire seating capacity of the theater for the Wednesday and Thursday performance of the Cohan play has been taken for the entertainment of the delegates to the American Bankers' Association Convention and their friends.

George Du Maurier's great story,
"Trilby," will be presented to the Burbank audiences this week in the dramatized form, with Marjorie Rambeau in the title role, and A. Byron Beasley as the arch-monster, Svengali. Miss Rambau has been enjoying a rest
this week after her strenuous labors in "Salvation Nell" and in "Trilby."
She will have a part admirably fitted to her talents. Trilby, it will be remembered, was a beautiful artist's model in the Quartier Latin. She and a young artist, Little Billie, fall in love, but Svengali, a musician with hypnotic powers, splits the girl away, and under the influence of his suggestion, she becomes the sensation of the world as a singer. She remains under his spell for several years, until one day, coming face to face with her old sweetheart, the spell is broken.
Beasley as Svengali will have one of the greatest opportunities for powerful acting he has ever had in Los Angeles. His art never has displayed the maturity he has evidenced in the past few weeks, and this should prove the climax of his achievements.

In addition to the principal characters, there is a great brotherhood of interesting people in this play. The Land, Taffy, Zee-Zee and all the men and women of the wonderful community represented in the student life of Paris are depicted most cleverly.
Although the main story is very earnest, the by-plots are rich in comedy, and the entire force of the Belasco company will be required to present this drama of art, love and hypos-tism.

The highest class acts obtainable in this particular vaudeville field will open the new Pantages Theater Monday afternoon. Six big acts, the place of the circuit, have been procured for this occasion, which will be the Pantages' introduction to the theatregoing public of Los Angeles.
Barnold's dog and monkey acts will lead the bill. This is one of the most famous animal acts on the stage today, in which is featured "Dan," the intoxicated canine. "Dan" is the leading character in a little one-act comedy pantomime, "A Hot Time Dogville." Unlike other dogs, "Dan" has the habit of becoming intoxicated and his antics on the stage are indur-cious. One drink after another, at finally he reaches the stage where he imagines the street-corner lamp post is his best post and there he campaigns until a similar policeman comes along calls the patrol wagon and "Dan" hustled off to jail. This is the climax of a number of laughable situations in which Barnold's trained dogs and monkeys are the characters.
Another head-liner for the opening bill is Sophie Tucker, the international comedienne, twentieth-century singer and con shouter. Miss Tucker has made a hit in eastern vaudeville and is now making her debut on the Coast.
Maurice Burkhardt is a characteristic comedian, a "schitz," a mirth producer of first quality.
MacLean & Bryant appear in dramatization of William Wines gambling story, "17-20 on the Black."
Lelott Bros. have a comedy music sketch which is "something different."
The Yalto Duo are novelty white wind dancers.
Brilliant and variety character the Orpheum bill for the week beginning Monday matinee September as all the new acts are distinctive from those now here.
The "Top of the World" dancers, who present "Kris Kringle's Dream" and the famed Collie ballet, will provide one of the most novel terpsichorean effects yet seen. Lifted bodily from the musical comedy of that name, Miss Act is thus freed from the thrall which enveloped it on the road, and seen in its own perspective. There 12 girls in it, expert ponies, and a give, with the trick of as many true thoroughbred collies, a novel presentation of a ballet. Besides, there Harry All, the polar bear, and several other whole act comprising young musical comedy in itself.
George McKay and John Canty are also from musical comedy, being the late stars of the Olympia permanent company, in Chicago, where it
"On the Great White Way," will permit them to impersonate number of characters familiar at that street of lights, and to introduce many eccentric dances, in which they excel.
Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Connolly offer "Sweethearts," the playlet Sir W. S. Gilbert, who ran 120 nights in London. Gilbert, who wrote
"Alfred" and many other coms, put his best into it. It is a simple story of two young love separated by youth, who find in old the delight before denied them. It

Marvel's Autumn Opening

—The Real Fashion Show

THIS will be the one most important fashion exhibit that every woman will want to see.

The display of French and American hats—and trimming ideas will, we think, surpass any millinery exhibit ever seen in Los Angeles.

The Marvel, as the largest exclusive millinery house on the Pacific Coast, has made great preparations for this showing which we invite every woman within reach of this store to come and see.

man, Miss Myrtle Calvert played the wedding march. At 9 o'clock a reception took place at the bride's home, at which a large circle of friends were present. The bride and groom will leave for Coronado, where they will make a short stay, and upon returning will reside at No. 1273 West Thirty-first street. They will be home to their friends after the middle of October.

Mrs. Mahan Home.

With the return to Los Angeles last week of Mrs. Clark Ross Mahan, after an extended visit to many cities in the South and East, her beautiful who has returned from an extended visit among charming people in the eastern and southern cities, and at whose beautiful home on Oak Hill many delightful social affairs are to be given.

home on Oak Hill is again open to her large circle of friends, who include numbers of the most interesting people in the social, literary and musical centers of the city. It is situated on a noble hilltop, overlooking Arroyo Seco and Gervasia, and has been the scene of many notable entertainments in the last year. During her sojourn in the East, Mrs. Mahan, accompanied by her daughter Marcelle, visited many prominent people who are among her friends. Among these were: Mrs. Cary Cravens, the wife of Congressman Cravens of Arkansas; Mrs. S. H. Lynn of Rochester, a poetess, and the daughter of Nathaniel G. Willis, whose poems are classic; Dr. George W. Goler, a national figure in health association work; Dr. and Mrs. Frank P. Dow, and Dr. William Channing Gannett, a noted poet and pastor of the Unitarian Church at Rochester.

When residing in Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. Mahan were very active and prominent in Dr. Gannett's splendid institutional work. The Gannett circle at Rochester included some of the most brilliant people of York State. Mrs. Mahan also visited her cousin, George Dover of Providence, a noted American tenor, who has recently forsaken his career as an operatic singer to manage the big fortune he has accumulated. Mrs. Mahan also paid a brief visit to Mr. Mahan's father and mother, Judge and Mrs. John H. Mahan, now of Kensington, D. D. Judge Mahan was formerly Presiding Judge of the Court of Appeals in Kansas.

Nice Honored.

Mrs. Harry Rose of Alhambra was hostess Friday at a whist party with which she entertained in compliment to her niece, Mrs. Raymond Moore, who leaves for home in El Centro today. Pink amaryllis and pink roses adorned the home. Dainty refreshments were served. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. John W. Shenk, Jr., and Mrs. Norman Marsh. Those enjoying the afternoon were: Meses Charles Ehrhorn, H. B. Kelley, Carl McStay, T. J. Ralston, George Bush, T. W. Bishop, Hartley Packer, Norman Marsh, Wilfrid Shobottom, E. V. Sutton, William Stringfellow, Mary Stringfellow, George Patterson, O. F. Kuencer, B. F. Huntington, Charles C. Hudson, Frank Stokes, and the Meses Bertha Moore and Florence Clifford of South Pasadena, Mrs. John W. Shenk, Jr., Mrs. Robert Hardy and Mrs. Roy Rose of Los Angeles, Mrs. J. V. Wachtel, Sr., and Miss Market Wachtel of El Centro, Mrs. Glen N. Seymour of Elgin, Neb.

Return After Visit.

The Meses Mary and Alice Prince, who have been passing the summer with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harbert of Hotel New Marlton, have returned to their home in Hemet.

Dancing Party.

Richard Chaplain gave a most delightful dancing party Friday evening at the Alhambra Clubhouse, which was decorated for the occasion with potted palms and ferns. Music was furnished by an orchestra for the dancing, and later supper was served. Mrs. Elmer Wellfare and Mrs. J. B. Sexton acted as chaperones. About 60 invitations were expended.

Birthday Dinner.

Mrs. Hiram Lethead entertained with a surprise dinner party Tuesday evening at her home at Eleventh and Grattan streets, complimentary to the birthday anniversary of her husband. King enchantment caravans in a cut

At $100 Picture Hats Just From Paris

There is a distinct picturesqueness about the French hat that is inimitable. Individual. It is alluring. The peculiar twist of a ribbon—the tilt of a brim will stamp the personality of some renowned milliner upon it. Among those procured by us for The Fashion Show is one of mink and silver with silver lace cap of exquisite daintiness. Camille Rogers sends this, of course. Maison Jossé contributes a prunelle velvet with a natural Bird of Paradise. An immense picture hat in black and gold with the gold lace evening hood bears Mon. Virot's label. Particularly "Frenchy" are the dress hats of mink and beaver with helio aigrettes. They're all unusual. From other famous designers, such as Marie Lewis, Georgette, Pouyanne, Germain, Reboux, Kaulner, have come their choices, most original patterns.

French Patterns at $50

You'll know instantly that these hats are specially priced for The Fashion Show. You'd judge them to be $90 at least, so rich they are. A picture hat of Royal Purple and gold is imperious—gorgeous. An especially noticeable silver hat is trimmed with ostrich plumes and roses—a combination wonderfully effective. Night-blue niche turbans with black Paradise feathers; beaver dress hats with white trimmings and dozens of other equally as chic.

As to Trimmings

Not ever can you get too much of the glisten of gold and silver lace—or the oddity of barbaric metal flowers. Gorgeous Birds of Paradise and rich ostrich plumes give the softening effects—while color riots through weaves both rough and smooth.

Authoritative Accessories and Trimmings

Never since 1770 has Fashion levied such heavy tribute on the Orient in assembling the "small belongings" of milady's costume. Filmy laces, cobweb nets, chiffons and marquises with crystal drops, beads and jewelings in effects gorgeous, barbaric, even bizarre are her decrees for this season.

Scarfs and Neckwear—Nets, Belts and Fancies

The Scarfs

—are things of beauty! Oriental and Balkan effects prevail. There are long scarfs fringed with ribbons—applied with gold and crystal, suggesting the kaleidoscopic splendor of Roumania and Bulgaria—scarfs in Oriental design on the shimmeriest of chiffons—in dainty fascination and variety to please all.

Irish Crochet Neckwear $1.00

Especially selected for this event. Bows, jabots and cascades in this exquisite lace that is used so lavishly on the smartest toilettes.

A Special Feature The Petit Trianon Scarf at $10

Direct from the Louvre—an exclusive importation of our own. The soft tints with their delicate embroideries—French designs in old gold—bring visions of the Empress Josephine as she walked in the gardens of le Petit Trianon.

The Aviation Scarf $6 up to $15

Beautiful and eminently practical as well. Wide enough to cover the shoulders and tapering to a tasseled end, giving a mantilla effect. All colors.

The Trimmings

Nets, Marquises and Spanish Toscas in Persian and Damascene designs, silk Brussels with gold and crystal drops, Point Carreaux and Point de Tulle in shades delicate as the wings of butterflies, richly jeweled cuirasses and tunics, garnitures, medallions and jeweled bands in shimmering, scintillating array! The item quoted below, we offer as a special feature for Monday only.

Fashion Show Hats $15

Among these you will find no two hats alike. They are smart—they are exclusive. Adaptations from the best French models by our own expert designers and trimmers, that are as chic as the originals. We have prepared a fit display for The Fashion Show—one we are proud to call attention to. That you may wear the latest—and at a comparatively small price—you have only to select your Fall hat from among them. Most becoming, too, and very rich.

As to the Shapes

Paris and New York say it must be one extreme or the other—the chic turban size, or the immensity of the picture hat—but in each there is something that is becoming to every face. This the droop or tilt or close-lying of the brim decides.

French Millinery $25 Values Unequaled

Hats for street, dress and evening wear—exclusive models from such well-known Paris designers as Maison Josse, Linn Faulkner, Heitz Boyer, Marie Louis, Mme. George, Mme. Pouyane, Esther Meyer, Camille Roger, Mlle. Leontine and Caroline Reboux—names that are synonyms for distinctiveness, originality and unsurpassable richness and beauty in the world of millinery. There are beaver and feather turbans and the picturesque large dress shapes in bewildering variety—not one but what you would unhesitatingly price at far more than we are asking! Think of buying French millinery—hats that you can wear feeling sure that they are not only handsome and becoming but embody Fashion's latest word interpreted by the witchery held only in Parisian fingers. Be sure to see this display, leisurely and carefully.

Fashion's Whims In the Latest of Autumn Apparel

—garments that show in every detail the touch of the master artist—the modiste with individuality and originality, as the keynote of every production. Evening costumes—decollete models, chiffon, beaded nets and laces over satins and Persians with beaded garnitures—an unmatchable array; $85 to $400.

Chic Suits, Evening Wraps—Dresses of Rare Beauty

The Tailored Suits we Show in Unrivalled Array at $25 to $50

A tendency toward very simple, if not severely plain effects is evident among the fashionable tailored suits. Coats for 1910 are to be shorter—skirts tighter and the Hamburger array includes every adaptation, also, of these prevailing styles. Materials? Most favored are English chevrons, basket cloths, imported mixtures, mannish cloths, French serges, soft tweeds, boucles, etc., etc., in black and—really—every color you might wish.

Graceful Cloaks

The Autumn array of coats and capes far exceeds even our own expectation—the temptation to choose nearly all the attractive models has resulted in this showing. The broadcloth capes in most instances show the Mandarin sleeve. Coats in Polo style, all white, or white lined with blue or maize. Also attractive tourist coats in varied display. Rough fabrics prevail.

LOS ANGELES UNITED FASHION SHOW - Lane's -

Autumn Formally Ushered In

EXPECTANCY stands on tip-toe, awaiting the earliest peep at this, the first United Fashion Show; a season when Dame Fashion will rule as she never has in this city before. And such a season for her sway, for truly the women's apparel Fall modes combine to a marked degree more pleasing, picturesque and practical features than they have for years past; delightful in their wide and free range of color preferences.

Never in the history of this store have we been so completely able to fulfill the wants of discriminating women. The entire second floor being devoted to garments alone, insures you a most extensive and diversified choice.

Party and Dancing Dresses

All the pastel shades and combinations are represented in these dainty party dresses of chiffon crepe de chine and nets. One number in particular is a most unusual value. It's made of hand-painted chiffon over China silk in a pretty modified hobble style. The colors are sky blue, white, maize and pink. The price of this dainty dress is only $14.95, other models range from that to $45.00.

Street Dresses

In these the modified hobble skirt, kimono sleeve and Dutch neck are the principal style features, and you'll find them here in such favorite materials as crepe meteor, voile, wool cashmere, French serge, eolienne and messaline, also marquisette over Persian satin with blue the predominating color. Prices range $10.00 to $55.00.

Costumes

Many charming models in afternoon and evening gowns are here awaiting your inspection, two of which we have portrayed. On the right is a copy from Paquin, made of black silk Chantilly net, over an amethyst shade Satin du Chest. The style is a modified Empire, elaborated with wide band of hand-embroidered silk applique in contrasting colors. This is draped across the bodice to the waist line in back, where it meets crushed satin girdle. There are also medallion and amethyst pendant trimmings. Sleeves and wide bands on skirt are edged with real Martin fur trimming. This costume $135.00. GOWN on the left is a handsome silver finseled black net over gray silk brocade. The distinctive feature is the draping of waists and sleeves, and the ornamentation of bodice with applique and smoked pearl ornament. A girdle of net edged with plaited silk cord. This costume, $90.00.

A GOWN of changeable two-toned chiffon, brass and blue, over rich brass colored satin trimmed with iridescent trimming at $97.50. Another very attractive model of old gold marquisette over king's blue satin du chest. This has a draped overskirt finished with knife plaited frill, ornamented with bands and rosettes, $55.00.

Wool Suits

This is to be a season of the Scotch weaves and rough materials for suits. Blue, gray and the various shades of brown and tan are popular. The styles for the most part are the plain mannish effects. Coats 30 and 34 inch lengths, and skirts narrow and clinging plaited and gored styles, not extreme but novel and practical; at $25.00 you will find one of the best assortments of suits shown in this city, while for those who want a better suit we show a variety of smart and exclusive models at $30. to $85.

Coats and Capes

Separate coats are plentifully shown here in the staple broadcloth serge and silk; the novelties, however, are confined principally to the heavy Scotch weaves in brown and gray mixtures, dark blues, etc., with and without plaid back. The belted polo coat and the mannish cut touring coats will appeal very strongly for autumn. Prices range from $8.50 to $45.00. Capes come in a variety of draped effects, $15.00 and up.

Waists

Waists for fall were never prettier, and the assortment is, indeed, exceptional from a standpoint of beauty, variety and unusual value. There are plain and plaid taffetas, messalines and chiffon over Persian silk, ranging $2.95 to $18.00.

Millinery

Our millinery department occupying the third floor is not only one of the largest in the city but the wide range of qualities and prices bid fair to supply the millinery wants of a varied and ever growing clientele.

Pattern Hats

An innovation—the designing and copying of imported models in colorings to exactly match or to harmonize with the gowns we are to show. In addition, there will be a display of patterns exemplifying a range of the season's choicest modes, at prices that run $20.00, $35.00, $50.00 and $75.00.

Handsome Shapes

Many of the season's ultra-fashionable hats have as their foundation a striking beaver, hatter's plush or velvet shape. There is also a complete line of other materials and kinds, making it probably the most extensive assortment of untrimmed shapes to be found in any millinery store in the city. Prices range $2.00 to $17.50.

Trimmings

The trimming purchaser will find here a profusion of rich ostrich plumes, brilliant ornaments and all desirable novelties of the season.

We Offer You the World's Best Corsetmakers' Products

Corsets that have a reputation, that are strongly grounded in the preferences of discriminating women. Such favorites as "GAGE DOWN'S JUSTRITE," R. & G. THOMSON'S GLOVE FITTING, and LA PREMIERE await you here in all the new fall models. The general tendency seems to be slightly more tapering waist, slightly fuller hip lines, and for stout figures a decided innovation, the boned clamp bust, completely encasing and removing any evidences of over-development. These lines range $3.50 to $15.00 the pair.

Fashionably Trimmed Hats

In Which Low Price Enters as a Strong and Attractive Feature

It probably will not be out of place at this time to call your attention to a feature of our millinery business, for which we have long been planning. That is to supply the best trimmed hats at $10.00, $7.50 and $4.98 that will be offered in this city.

In connection with the display of better hats, these three lines will occupy considerable space during this Fashion Show.

The first two prices include a most satisfying variety of dress and street hats, while at $4.98 you will find satin, velvet, boucle and Persian silk effects in the various modifications of the Charlotte Corday hat, close fitting turbans, large and small roll brim effects and the Miss Sherry, New York's latest shape. Almost every conceivable color and color combination, and the trimmings are ribbon, quills, fancy feathers, ostrich fancies, jet ornaments, bows, etc.

We will make this line absolutely second to none in this city at the price.

Fall Trimmings

So many and so varied that space permits but briefest mention. The bands, festoons, appliques and garnitures in most effective colorings and combinations.

There are crystal beaded ornaments and bands, handsomely embroidered and jet effects, and the new Paisley designs and coloring, ranging from 50c to $7.50 a yard.

The allover laces in metallic effects at $1.00 to $5.00 per yard are most charming. Drop ornaments in profusion, new chiffon cloth, Persian bordered auto veils at $1.50 to $6.00, and the silver studded scarfs, ranging to $20.00, are but a few of the attractions this department holds.

BY ANTHONY E. ANDERSON.

From "An Autumn Garden."
My tent stands in a garden
Of aster and golden rod,
Tilted by the rain and the sunshine.
And down by the hand of God—
An old New England pasture
Abandoned to peace and time,
And by the magic of beauty
Reclaimed to the sublime.
About it are golden woodlands
Of tulip and hickory;
On the open ridge behind it
You may mount to a glimpse of the sea.

Indian Studies.
It is safe to say that no living painter has a more intimate knowledge of the Indian than Warren E. Rollins. He has lived among the redmen for many years, sharing their joys and sorrows, painting their every-day life, their rites and ceremonies. He has, in short, been one of them, bringing his wife and children with him to the tents of the desert.
This notable interpreter of Indian life has just returned to Los Angeles from a sketching trip in New Mexico that lasted for seven busy months.

The Land of His Fathers.

From an oil painting by Warren E. Rollins. One of the many interesting pictures of Indian life this artist brought with him from New Mexico, after a sketching trip of over six months.

bringing almost a hundred interesting and illuminating studies and sketches. Many of these were made for a great work—Mr. Rollins considers it his life work—which he will begin early next year and continue uninterruptedly till its completion. This work will be twenty-five large panels picturing "The Passing of the Tribes."

"The Passing of the Tribes" will show the migrations of the Indian from the remote past to the present time. The scenes will be laid in the Grand Canyon, where the Indian first saw the light of day. The artist has also planned a series of twelve pictures which will remain a record of the domestic, ceremonial and idyllic life of the Indian of today.

He hopes to finish this series before the end of the year. Some of them are already completed. "The Mystery Man" was published in The Times last October. "The Land of His Fathers" shows an Indian lost in serious contemplation. The pose so easy and so natural, was assumed by the model without a single suggestion from the artist. In this picture, as in the others which have a background of mountains or mesa, the figure and the landscape are equally well done, with sympathy and knowledge.

"The Historian" also belongs to this series. The sketch for the picture shows us a young man etching on an adobe wall some thrilling story of his tribe. He is just placing the great sun symbol on the soft sandstone. "The Dancing Lesson," still in the rough, one figure not even indicated, will show a man seated on a vividly red rug while he beats a drum for a boy who is going through the steps of the dance. This is an every-day event in Indian life, a pleasant pastime of the leisure hour.

The largest canvas will be six feet long. It will be called "Cry of the Skies." The sketches have been made, but the picture has been composed only in the artist's thought. In the foreground will be the bowed figure of a man, who is mourning for his wife or daughter, lying dead, and draped in black, on a couch in front of him. Mr. Rollins had much difficulty in obtaining a model for the dead woman, and finally succeeded by telling the girl who posed that she was to feign sleep. No Indian would have consented to pose for death. The girl was ill with consumption, and her pallor was exactly what the artist wanted. Her face, turned up to the light, had all the serene majesty of death.

"The water carrier promises to be one of the most beautiful, most poetic of the pictures. Mr. Rollins has made some charming sketches for it. It will show us a superb young woman coming down a broken stairway, a large olla poised on her head. The figure will be seen against a yellow evening sky.

Among the sketches, "The Hunter" shows a young man in red blouse and leggings. He carries a bow and arrow, and wears eagle feathers stuck in a ring on his skull cap. Interesting too, is "The Man in Dance Feathers," wearing tight trousers with strange flaps suggesting a ballet.

Charming bits of landscape with adobe backgrounds are "Poplar Near Santa Fe," "The Pueblo of Laguna," "Ruins of Old Mission at Santa Clara," etc. The artist also shows some fine studies made at Rito de los Frijoles (Canyon of Beans), where excavations are now going on that prove the pueblo to be at least 5000 years old, and where twenty feet of digging are needed to bring the searcher to the top stories of the dwellings.

Some archaeological school in the States is at Santa Fe. This is the old Indian palace, built in 1620, by the soldiers, was recently torn down to make way for an immense hotel. It is planned to build in Santa Fe. This interesting workshop will be ready for occupancy in January, when the artist will go back to Santa Fe to begin work on "The Passing of the Tribes."

Mr. Rollins did not bring all his recent sketches with him to the exhibition recently held in Santa Fe, for tourists have awakened to the value of his work as true records of Indian life.

In the Art Schools.
All the art schools in Los Angeles have been making extensive preparations for a busy year. They have found it impossible to give adequate housing to the pupils who have applied for instruction during the past few months, and therefore all of them have been compelled to enlarge their quarters.

The Polytechnic High School leads the van with a brand-new building for art purposes only. The Los Angeles School of Art and Design, near Westlake Park, has added a gallery for the exhibition of pictures. The first exhibition held there will be a collection of the recent work of Frederick Melville DuMont, who has been engaged to teach in the life classes of the school.

In the College of Fine Arts, Garvanza, extensive changes and additions have also been made. Helma mountains. Mr. DuMont has begun a series of lectures to the life classes, the same, with illustrations, which he delivered in the Julian Academy, Paris.

Three very strong twilight effects by Charles Crocker are now on exhibition in the Gould gallery, West Fifth street. These are all rich in color, poetic in feeling. In the same gallery is found a charming "Hayfield in France," by C. Pelouse. It is graceful in line, and shows haystacks on a gray-green field against a gray sky.

Jack Oakley, recently returned from Paris, has opened a studio in a downtown building. Frederick Melville DuMont's Los Angeles studio is in the old Baker block. His home for the winter is in Monrovia.

Elmer Wachtel and Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel returned a few days ago from a sketching trip in the San Gabriel Canon.

Should Take His Time.
Representative Norris of Nebraska was on a street car on a recent Sunday, says the Washington correspondent of the Cleveland Leader, when there entered a white-haired woman, a man of say 30 and a well-dressed young woman. The conversation soon made it apparent that the young man and his mother were from a farm and that they were visiting Washington for the first time. The young woman was the sister of the young man. The man was starting for home, leaving his mother to visit longer.

The car was crowded when it came to a transfer point. Here the young man was to leave his mother and sister. He rose, took up his bag and turned to kiss his mother. She stood the young Belgian painter, one of whose pictures has just been bought by Queen Elizabeth.

Heysen-Jahn has been appointed instructor in the life classes. The Art Students' League of Los Angeles has raised its ceiling five feet, has knocked down partitions, and has so arranged the skylight that the school now can accommodate comfortably twice as many pupils as heretofore. The floor space has been increased over 100 square feet.

All of which seems to give an encouraging flip to matters artistic. Let us look up with smiles. Los Angeles may yet be the art center of the universe—as the prophets have prophesied.

A Royal Connoisseur.
Queen Elizabeth of Belgium has just bought a still-life by the talented Belgian artist, Mlle. Ronner, which now hangs in her private apartments in the Royal Palace at Brussels.

The composition of the painting is one of extreme simplicity, the principal color scheme being dark reds and blues, somewhat on the shades of the old Japanese prints. Just a portion of a mantle is shown, but it presents a very decorative appearance with its odd pieces of old china, the soft drapery in neutral tints and the mass of luxurious hydrangeas that plays such an important part in the center of the picture.

The popular young Queen is taking an active interest in art. She does not leave the selection in the hands of representatives, the usual mode of procedure with crowned heads, but personally investigates, independent of outside advice, the work where art treasures are to be sought. Connoisseurs acknowledge her rare discernment in the choice of paintings, and find her a most capable critic.

The Queen informally visited the atelier of Mlle. Ronner, and after expressing deep appreciation for the many works of beauty it contained, singled out this still-life as a most admirable painting, and the visit ended with the purchase.

ART NOTES.

Among the additions to the School of Art and Design is a large roof garden studio, giving a full view of the up and threw her arms about his neck. For some two minutes she delivered a last motherly message.

"All out for Union Station!" shouted the conductor, with his hand on the bell cord.
Embarrassed, the young man still held his arm about his mother's waist. "Start the car, conductor," said a man in a silk hat. "It's church time now."

Still the aged woman poured out her admonitions.
"Why can't people do this sort of thing before they start for church?" the silk-hatted man grumbled.
It had gone far enough for Norris. "Young man," he said to the farmer, "you just take all the time you want to say good-by to your mother. You don't know when you will say it to her for the last time. And if any of these people are so worried about their sins that they must hurry to church, why they might get down on their knees right here and pray."

Better in Old Times.
"When I was a young girl," titters the first old lady, "one of my beaux hugged me so hard he broke one of my ribs."
"Humph!" replies the second old lady, adjusting her glasses and smoothing back her hair in conscious pride, "when I was a young girl one of my beaux hugged me so hard he broke one of his arms."—(Life.)

Diamond Reliability

The dependability of this store as diamond dealers, accounts for the reliability of the stones it sells.

Defective stones are not sold by accident, but oftentimes through the ignorance of the dealer in what constitutes a perfect gem.

Authoritative diamond knowledge is the result of broad experience, long practice and careful regard for the customers' interest.

For eighteen years this store has served in the capacity of diamond dealer, and today, its clientele is perhaps the largest of any store in the West. Reliability is the answer.

The Fascinating Gem

There is no other gem in the diadem of as transcendent beauty as the diamond.

It is emblematic of purity and constancy, then how important that your choice be a true and perfect stone.

Here you'll find only such and a choice of sizes and settings comprehensive enough to satisfy every need.

MAKING A MASSAGE CREAM.

A reader writes from Portland, Oregon: "The corset massage cream you recommended to Myrtle K. is the dandiest I ever used." I am exceedingly careful in advising my readers, and it is a pleasure to learn that these simple home remedies are helpful. While most massage creams are costly and hard to make, readers of this column will find the corset preparation inexpensive and equal to the finest on the market. To make it, get three ounces of corset cream from your druggist and put into a pint of water that has been brought to the boiling point; stir until dissolved and pour into a pint jar. This corset cream is not greasy and will not grow hard, while it feeds the delicate, shrunken tissue, removes wrinkles and blemishes, frees the pores from blackheads and gives the skin that soft, satiny glow of youth.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.
Dora: Brushing the scalp vigorously will not cure dandruff nor stop falling hair. You must use a good shampoo every other week for a while and a tonic every day for a month, then once a week. I advise eggol for shampooing, as it removes dandruff and feeds the scalp. For a tonic, I would suggest beta-carotene, which any druggist can supply. To eight ounces of grain alcohol add the same amount of water and into this put an ounce of beta-carotene. A faithful use of these two will promote a luxuriant growth of hair and keep the scalp clean and healthy.

Miss K.: Rubbing should have a place in your beauty program. You can make a very effective massage cream by using the corset cream and water mixture.

Miss T.: I would suggest beta-carotene and eggol for your skin. Use the beta-carotene in the alcohol-water mixture and the eggol for shampooing.

W. Dutton, Tuesday, with a picnic at Venice. The guests included Mrs. Nathan Hurlingham, Mrs. Hattie Vance, Mrs. Susie Miller, Misses Stella Miller, Elsie Vance, Almeda Miller, Daphne Hurlingham, Dorothy Dutton and Jessie Dutton; Messrs. J. W. Tiffany and Fred Spear.

A surprise was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. V. Price Brown at their home on Brand boulevard, Monday evening, it being the occasion of their fifteenth wedding anniversary. Seventeen couples from the Glendale Country Club met at the home of Mrs. Ade, corner First and Brand, and went in a body to the Brown home.

Miss Louise and Master Frank Heister entertained with a party Thursday afternoon at their home on Maple avenue. The following ladies chaperoned the party, Mrs. John Hunchberger, Dr. Jessie Russell, Mrs. V. Price Brown, Mrs. E. L. Duggan, Mrs. Begg, Mrs. Foster and Miss Ida M. Waite.

Playa del Rey.
MR. AND MRS. R. H. BOYSON of Chicago motored over from Pasadena on Sunday in their new model 10 Loxier, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Nash of Los Angeles, for a day's outing by the sea. They left on Monday for a trip to the various beach resorts.

Mr. and Mrs. C. McKinley returned to Los Angeles, as Mr. McKinley's health was much improved by his summer outing here. He will return to his place at the Chamber of Commerce next week.

Evan T. Williams, a talented young Welshman from Llanfihangel, Wales, has come to stay while at Playa del Rey. Last week he entertained Prof. Hayden Jones and Mrs. Hayden Jones and a small party of Los Angeles friends at dinner at the Auditorium. The dinner was a very recherche affair of ten covers, and was followed by a small musicale. A delightful programme was tendered, assisted by Hayden Jones, who is possessed of a splendid tenor and Evan Williams, a talented artist. The dinner was a most unique affair, to celebrate the occasion of a famous Welsh annual festival which takes place in Wales this week. The festival is called "The Eisteddfod"—or "Chairing of the Bard". It is a competition for poets, artists and musicians, which is given annually in Wales to encourage art and literature, by the government, and is celebrated in some history and romance. Miss Kate Jones, a sister of the young Welshman (Evan Williams, mentioned above), is the best known young musician and harpist in Llanfihangel; indeed, throughout Wales her fame has spread, although she is still a very young woman. Evan Williams is a handsome young bachelor of musical genius and undoubted literary ability, and it is being whispered that he may return to Wales some day with an American girl for a wife to grace the quaint old Welsh castle by the pearl sea fisheries of Llanfihangel. But it is to be pronounced the name of her new home.

Colton.

Following this, a sumptuous banquet was served in the banquet hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Mrs. Burns was the recipient of a beautiful hand-painted plate, the gift of the chapter.

SIMPLE but beautiful in every way was the wedding of Miss Acaela Teresa Orena, daughter of Mrs. Gaspar Orena, and a member of the proudest of the proud California families, and James Bennett Rickard of Washington, D. C., which took place Wednesday afternoon at the family residence. The Reverend Father Thomas Sherman performed the ceremony. Mr. Rickard was attended by Thornhill Broome, while the bride was preceded to the altar by her maid of honor, Miss Ynes Orena. The bride wore an exquisite creation of sheer embroidered linen lawn, and a becoming rose-colored hat. She carried a bouquet of white blossoms. The couple left for their honeymoon, which will be spent in the Grand Cañon. They will reside in Los Angeles. Mr. Rickard is an attorney in the employ of the government.

Jones, San Diego; Mrs. Nora Simpkins, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Randall and Mrs. Ammerman Arlington. This distinguished singer, but aversion to travel, and as he may lose his voice by singing alone, detest him from any arrangement outside grand opera engagements. This the longing to sing in the great overcame his objections, and his concert tour is the result.

The Los Angeles Symphony promises to be a most brilliant year. It will open at the Auditorium Friday afternoon, November 18, usual, six concerts will constitute the series. Director Hamilton has reached New York City, and all new symphonies, overtures and orchestration are arriving in Los Angeles, and are being tabulated for production.

Mr. Hamilton has visited Paris, Vienna, Berlin, Munich, Ammergau, Brussels and The Hague, and called on many of the modern composers, talking over their conditions so as to arrive at a keener understanding of their beauties and to bring forward in a more efficient manner their rendition by his orchestra.

This year the membership of the orchestra includes over seventy players, with Arnold Krauss as conductor. Excellent soloists are used; already Tillie Koenig, the contralto, and Emilio de Gogorona, have been engaged. Other known vocalists or instrumentalists under consideration.

Simpson's Auditorium is recognized as one of the most perfect built from an acoustic standpoint, in Los Angeles, and the demands of the orchestra for added comfort have taken into consideration, and changes are to be made before the season opens. The lighting facilities all to be worked from independent switches, so as to remove the light from the circle, while a portable string light will be arranged for the balcony floor. Increased lighting facilities on Hope street and a post box office will be added. The orchestra has been a tedious one, suiting in a selection of women.

The entire programme at the Cafe Chantant changes this week, who have remained favorites. The last three weeks gave way to new songs, dances and songs.

Jeanette Dupree, a vaudeville well known throughout the East in London, brings a breezy person, swaggar gowns, a smile and a of humorous talkative songs.

Fern Melrose, a well-known Alaskan vocalist, comes highly commended as a singer and entertainer. Melville J. Glendon, song and artist, as well as composer, has been engaged with him, and together can beauty, presenting dancing singing novelties.

The Hungarian dancers present new series of Russian and Hun songs and dances. They are a number, gracefully costumed pictures of halcyon days, giving both the dances of the country as well as those of the city.

Director Kammermeyer presents some new offerings, a feature, Levy afternoon and evening grammes.

A CLOWN'S LIFE.

THE HISTORY OF A CLOWN. By Jules Turnour. New York: D. Appleton & Co.

On the dawn. The casual life of the clown who is a history of the art of the profession of the clown. It has its own history, which reaches back to the time of the first clown. open their doors to him. And when Joe did not appear at Covent Garden all London talked. He seemed as necessary as the great John Kemble himself.

With the death of Joe, the exquisite subtleties which had placed the clown in a high position among the dramatic personages died also. So strong was the demand of the public that the theatrical managers exerted every means to fill the vacancy left by Joe. But they found this impossible. The substitution which they created was different. The clowns which followed were acrobats and did their tricks with elaborate scenic effects. It was nimbleness and agility which supplanted humor. Even today we find many traces of this particular kind of clowning.

Jules Turnour, the subject of this book, was born in a circus wagon. His mother was a premiere dancer and his father an acrobat. At an early age (under the direction of the Comedians, a family of carpet gymnasts) Jules began to train to be a clown. When he was but 8, he was considered an excellent performer, known on the posters as the "Child Wonder."

He appeared in a demon act with red tights, red face and a tall. For ten years he presented this act, all through the country. One day he became ill and collapsed during his contortions. At the hospital he was told he could not work for years. As a matter of fact it was three years before he was able to go into the ring again. But his illness had worked havoc; and finding himself unable to do his old stunts, he adopted the drooleries and fooling of the clown. This profession he has followed ever since. He is now nearly 60 years old.

The stories he tells of his life and triumphs are interesting ones, full of human material. Of his narrow escapes from death, of his accidents with runaway horses, of the scars and bruises which cover his body—he relates with naïveté. For years he was with the tented circus, during which he calls the golden age of clowning, when W. C. Coup, Barnum, Seely and Ringling Bros. were in the field of their glory.

There were all white-faced clowns in those days—Dan Rice, the world's greatest droll; George L. Fox, the Grimaldi of America, and the original Humpty Dumpty, who performed over 200 times in New York alone. Billy Burke, father of the actress; Whimsical Walker; Al Misco, who is still living. Misco is a Shakespearean scholar, and reads Ben Jonson under the tent flaps. Though nearly 70 years old, he can twist his foot round his neck with agility. He is one of the few survivors of the old-time clown.

Jules devotes a whole chapter telling about the history of the clown, of their origin, and of their place in the history of clownery. Much of the inside life he gives us—its humor, its pathos, its sentiment, its tragedy.

A curious aspect he throws over his profession. The serious side of his art he reveals, how strenuous efforts and study are required to produce laughs, how every step of every act is rehearsed, how every fall is practiced, so that it may appear natural.

The secret of youth, Jules tells us, lies in being a clown. There is something in clowning that keeps the actor eternally young. At times Jules becomes weary, for he is getting to be an old man; but when he hears the band, the clamping of the horses, and smells the sawdust, and feels the indescribable movement of the crowds, the weariness falls from him like magic, and he is young. For five years he has not missed a performance.

Different forms of amusement come and go, but clowning remains. It is done in the open. It has no sensuous appeal. It has no purpose. Its sole idea is to amuse. It interprets a world-humor in which there is no border-line, race or creed. It is fundamental and eternal. And because of this it has achieved permanency.

There's only one great silence in the world—the silence of the soul. The wind will moan and whisper the branches, and the waves upon the sea.

you a good run for your money. If she had built. The chateau had been deserted. The winds and rain beat into the hall which once had harbored the gay life of her court. The fountains in her rose gardens had crumbled, and the flowers had faded.

Years after, retracing her steps to the ruined garden, she ended her life.

There's only one great silence in the world—the silence of the soul. The wind will moan and whisper the branches, and the waves upon the sea.

Keep up a constant hum, though centuries may pass, the only real silence that the search can find.

Is the stillness of a statement, something on his mind.

The bee maintains a gentle hum all day; The insects hum in harmony, as well as play.

The quail keeps on putting in the liden train.

And quail complete is peace that we seek in vain.

Unless we seek it far from bustle and the grind In the stillness of the statement, has something on his mind.

In the Sand. Chains and chains of hills I see With streams and valleys in the distance. As high as any I have seen. Seas and tides and coast I see. Lone rocks and wrecks and wrecks.

And harbors denting in the night. Where ships could be at night.

Fertile farmlands, too, I see. With orchards, pastures, and woods.

All bright and handsome in the sun. And ever smiling as they pass.

Cities, busy, big, I made. All roaring, roaring through the night.

With people walking up and down. And walking up and down.

All this I made right in the heart. And told myself I mustn't look at it. At it, at it, at it was done.

And when I smoothed and smoothed. I caught my breath at night. And then I nearly cried—on, on. To see the lovely things I'd done.

HISTORICAL ROMANCE.

A GERMAN POMPADOUR. By Marie Hay. New York: D. Appleton & Co.

LET us now turn to "A German Pompadour," a romantic romance of the eighteenth century. Here is a tale with no small amount of color and atmosphere of court life. Those were gorgeous days, warm with the spirit of adventure and permeated with the opulence of life.

The story tells of the fickle and artistic Eberhard Ludwig, the Duke of Wurtemberg, who, tring of his wife, turns to the mystically beautiful Wilhelmine von Grabenitz. In a twilight garden by the crystal fountain the poet finds the singer, and for twenty years she is his mistress.

Few have been the alliances such as this. The world has not had many romantic adventures to compare to the love of Eberhard and his Philomela. It was she whose white hands directed the building of the Ludwigsburg towers, which in beauty rank second only to Versailles. Here rose the gorgeous palaces full of paintings and statuary reproducing the features of Eberhard's mistress. It was for the Lady von Grabenitz that the gardens of roses were made. For her, white marble fountains were built. The beautiful chateau of La Favorite was a tribute to her love.

But it was there, amid the roses and the grandeur of opulent beauty, that died the dream of love. Wilhelmine was growing old, and Eberhard was fickle. He abandoned forever the dream which had lasted for twenty years of his life, and returned to his wife. Wilhelmine was cast into a prison, the beginning of the end. From thence the beautiful singer could only look out into the dim distance which held the golden towers of the castles.

THE HERITAGE OF THE DESERT. By Zane Grey. New York: Harper Bros.

A RIP-SNORTING, big-bangy, whoop-it-up tale of the West, is "The Heritage of the Desert," by Zane Grey. Take the book seriously and it is a fiasco. But go at it in the same state of mind in which you approach a piece of watermelon or make love to a chorus girl or peruse the barber-shop weeklies—and it will give you a good run for your money.

BOOK NEWS.

Edward Sheldon's play, "The Nigger," which may be said to have been the sensation of the New Theater's repertoire last year was published in book form last week. The subject of this drama centered as it is around the social and economic conditions of the negro in the South of the one which lends it a beautiful beauty to the printed page. In fact, if such a thing is possible, the structure of the drama and its underlying thought show up better than when it was first presented on the stage at the New Theater.

Charles H. Caffin has recently returned from abroad with the material for his new book, "The Story of Spanish Painting," which will continue the series begun in "The Story of Dutch Painting." The Century Company will

A new library edition is being made of Prof. William Milligan Simpson's "The Life of Napoleon Bonaparte." The four octavo volumes will have seventeen maps and thirty-two illustrations from rare prints and authentic portraits, and the text will be more than 10 per cent. of entirely new matter.

The Century Company is making Robert Hichens' description of "The Holy Land" into a book, with many full page pictures in the colors of the paintings by Jules Guerin, and with forty full page half-tone reproductions of carefully chosen photographs. The volume will be issued in late October.

Two books illustrated by Arthur Rackham, the celebrated English artist, will be brought out in the fall by Cassell & Co. They are "Greek Heroes," translated by Niebuhr, with additions, and "Stories of King Arthur," by A. L. Haydon. Each will have four colored plates and numerous other illustrations, and will be issued in an inexpensive edition.

George Sylvester Viereck will have his latest book, "Confessions of a Barbarian," published this fall simultaneously in Germany and in England. John Lane is bringing out the British edition, while a prominent publishing house of Berlin and Leipzig will bring out the German edition. This will be the third of Mr. Viereck's books to be published in Germany. The only one of his books which has not yet been published in Germany is "A Game of Love, and other Plays," which will also be brought out after the "Confessions."

Prof. Lieberman's fine little book, "The Story of Chaucer," immediately to be published by Moffatt, Yard & Co., contains a complete history of this celebrated play, together with a complete critical description and explanation.

THE PRINCES' TRUST WHICH AIMS AT RULING ALL EUROPE.

"Feudal Finance," Watchword of Great Financial Combine Headed by Three German Royalities, Who Are Related to Half the Nobility of the Continent.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—All Germany is watching for the next move of the all-powerful Princes' Trust, which is being so daringly and triumphantly run by the Kaiser's three intimate friends, Prince Max Egon Fürst von Fürstberg, Prince Christian Kraft von Hohenlohe and Prince Guido Henckel von Donnersmarck. The Princes' Trust is by far the greatest trust in Germany; it is indeed the only European trust of American magnitude; and, moreover, it is the first trust in the world to be run by serene highnesses, who are "evenbirthly," as Germany says, with all the sovereigns of Europe, and two of whom are related by blood to the Kaiser, the Austrian Emperor, and half-a-dozen of Germany's minor ruling potentates. The trust is only two years old. It sprang from an older agglomeration of capital known as the "Hohenlohe Concern." Despite its youth, it has already got into its hands some $250,000,000 of capital and is related with interests controlling $300,000,000 more. It has defeated more than one wealthy bank. It has challenged the once impregnable Rothschilds. And it will soon be without a rival unless it is able to stretch its longest arm across the Atlantic and try a fall with J. Pierpont Morgan.

The Princes' Trust is Europe's most ambitious attempt to do what so far only America has done in the way of combinations. But as Europe has no anti-trust law the Fürstberg-Hohenlohe-Donnersmarck trust knows no limit to its activities. It is as free to run a steamship line as to open a newspaper stall at a provincial railroad depot. Its motto, taken from the coat of arms of one of its princely chiefs, is "All the world is mine." This is not the only respect in which it differs from an American trust. It is at bottom feudal combination. The original idea was merely to develop the vast estates and mines of Prince Hohenlohe and his partner, particularly the Hohenlohe mines in upper Silesia. This development was so successful that Hohenlohe turned his mines into a joint stock company, and reaped some millions of dollars profit. The Austrian and German estates of Prince Fürstberg came in next. From mines the trust moved to factories and breweries, and farming, until finally it ended up in retail department stores; and it only needed the properties and enterprises of the multi-millionaire Silesian Prince, Henckel von Donnersmarck to make the picture complete.

ENORMOUS WEALTH. Leaving out of account Frau Bertha Krupp, and possibly one or two others, the three princes' fortunes represent the greatest private wealth existing in Germany. But at first much of this wealth was undeveloped land.

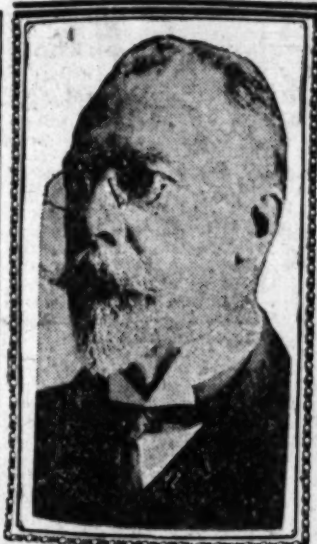

Prince Von Donnersmarck, German steel magnate, who is a leading member of the Princes' Trust.

capital was needed. The trust, therefore, entered into alliance with the Deutsche Bank, Germany's biggest and most enterprising financial concern. The Deutsche Bank runs railway concessions in China, intrigues for them in Persia, and is the most powerful interest at the back of the Bagdad Railroad scheme. Armed with the vast security of its own landed wealth, and with the aid of the bank's capital, the trust was able to launch more and more into colossal and multifarious enterprises. Today it runs mines and metallurgical works in four Prussian provinces and is about to open up coal mines in Bohemia. In the mining line its most profitable venture is the exploitation of the vast deposits of brown coal in Lower Lusatia. The mines supplying this coal themselves form a powerful syndicate, and through this syndicate the trust is aiming at a monopoly of the German briquette industry, which owes its importance to the fact that briquettes are exclusively used for domestic heating in most parts of the Fatherland. The trust lately began the development of large ancestral as well as newly-purchased properties near Berlin, Vienna, and other German and Austrian towns. Here it saw the advantage of doing its own development, so it gained control of the Bosman and Knauer corporation, the biggest building business in Germany. Soon the trust went into the hotel business, threw up in a few months the gorgeous Esplanade hotels in Berlin and Hamburg, and then looked about for further work for its active hands. It was quickly in possession of the splendid theater known as the Neue Schauspielhaus in West Berlin, which was built at a cost of $750,000. In the department store business the Princes' Trust is interested in Wertheim's gigantic store in the Leipzigerstrasse, and several others; and it is behind the Passage Kaufhaus in Friedrichstrasse. This last store cost $2,000,000. It glows and glitters with bronzes and colored marbles, luminous fountains and other adornments, all in Secessionist style. It has a Rialto bridge copied from Venice, and is altogether, if not the biggest, at least by far the most gorgeous and costly department store in Germany.

SPREAD OUT. The energies of the Princes Trust are not confined to Germany. Together with the Deutsche Bank, it controls the Levant and Union steamship lines of Hamburg and the German Palestine Bank. In Madeira it runs a hotel and sanatorium. Its greatest recent achievement, however, took place in this city. It fought a duel for the control of the Berlin General Omnibus Company and ousted decisively the banking houses of Bleichroeder, which is an ally of the Rothschilds. The Princes' victory was complete and now they are reported to be planning to get control of Berlin's street car and underground systems. While thus branching out more and more into urban enterprises, the trust has not lost grip upon its original idea, which is to develop the millions of acres of valuable agricultural and mineral lands of its chiefs in Prussia, Austria, and all the later enterprises entered upon are regarded as subsidiary to this.

German business men do not all like the trust. They denounce it for its "feudalism," by which they mean its attempt to restore Europe's economic leadership to the landed magnate families which were dominant before the beginning of the industrial era. Others suspect it of political scheming. The personality of all of its chiefs does not inspire confidence. Particularly is this so with the best known of them, Prince Max Egon von Fürstberg. His serene highness, Prince Max Egon, is head of one of those medieval royal houses which the Germanic Diet in August, 1925, proclaimed to be "of equal birth with the reigning European sovereigns." He is a Roman Catholic, is more Austrian than German, has town houses at Prague and Vienna, and is member of the Houses of Lords of Austria, Prussia, Württemberg and Baden. As a strong clerical, he is supposed to aim at playing a political role, and he has more than once been nominated by irresponsible friends to the Imperial Chancellery. Fürstberg's chief seat is at Donaueschingen in Baden; and it was here that his entertainment of Wilhelm II in November, 1908, caused such scandal to serious Germans. This was in the middle of the "Kaiser Crisis," caused by His Majesty's indiscreet revelations to a London newspaper. In the midst of the crisis, which all Germany demanded should be taken seriously, the Kaiser left for Donaueschingen, and telegrams soon afterward arrived describing him as laughing heartily at the frivolous entertainment supplied by his host, Max Egon, who had thoughtfully imported Berlin variety artists to sing doubtful songs.

of Hamburg and the German Palestine Bank. In Madeira it runs a hotel and sanatorium. Its greatest recent achievement, however, took place in this city. It fought a duel for the control of the Berlin General Omnibus Company and ousted decisively the banking houses of Bleichroeder, which is an ally of the Rothschilds. While thus branching out more and more into urban enterprises, the trust has not lost grip upon its original idea, which is to develop the millions of acres of valuable agricultural and mineral lands of its chiefs in Prussia, Austria, and all the later enterprises entered upon are regarded as subsidiary to this.

MINER GALORE. The second prince in the trust is Henckel von Donnersmarck, owner of countless estates, mines, and metallurgical works. His domains are in Prussia, Austria and Russian Poland. Alone of the three, he is not "evenbirthly," being as a prince brand new, but his other titles are old. The last and financially most important of the princely trinity is His Serene Highness, Prince Christian Kraft von Hohenlohe-Oehring, Duke of Ujest, head of the house of Hohenlohe-Ingelfinger. He is not only "evenbirthly" with the Kaiser, but is a not remote relative. Hohenlohe is the originator of the trust. He is an elderly bachelor whose one interest in life is to increase his already enormous wealth. All three magnates are tremendously influential at both the German and Austrian courts and their family relations comprehend half the higher aristocracy of the two empires. It is for this reason that their attempt to substitute feudal high finance based on land for parvenu high finance based on credit is by no means the impracticable undertaking it seems.

taking it seems. The political and family backing which the three princes possess is their great asset. It has brought them from success to success, and has this year made it possible for them to attack directly the mighty Rothschilds, on whom they had already inflicted an indirect defeat in the matter of the Berliner Omnibus Company.

FIRST BLOW. This attack took place in Austria, where the Rothschilds were held to be particularly strong, and believed themselves impregnable. The trust began to undermine in Vienna the long-rooted theory that without the Rothschilds the Austria could carry through no credit transaction. Their friends succeeded in proving to Austria's Finance Minister, Dr. von Billinski, that it would be better business if the Rothschilds were not trusted with the issuing of state loans, and if the work were done instead by the postoffice savings banks. Thereupon, last January, Billinski suddenly deposed the Rothschilds from their century-old place as state bankers. The Germany Disconto-Gesellschaft, the Deutsche Bank, Bleichroeder and Mendelssohn, all of which are allies of Rothschilds and foes of the princes' trust, were hit; and the Rothschilds had the mortification of seeing the Deutsche Bank, the partner in the princes' trust, appointed to work with the savings banks. The Rothschild group threatened that the credit operations would fall; but they succeeded brilliantly. A second Austrian loan also stood the test. Baron Albert Rothschild took the challenge like a gentleman.
